John Andrews[1] of Farmington, Conn.

m. Mary[1] , either in England or shortly after arrival here. (See Note, Andrews-Peck.)

d. probably early in 1682; will dated Nov. 9, 1681; inventory of estate taken Feb. 15, 1681-2, £321, 19s. 0d.

He was one of the early settlers; his name appears in the list of Freemen in Farmington, Oct. 12, 1669; and in 1672, he was one of the original proprietors of Farmington. His homestead was on the east side of the river and about two miles north of the village. The locality is now, (1871), called Waterville and the farm has remained in the possession of his descendants to this day. In the list of 42 families in full communion of the church in 1679, which list seems to have been graded in reference to dignity and standing, he and his wife were No. 14, He was a near neighbor of Deacon Isaac Moore and Capt. John Stanley[2], and is occasionally referred to as associated with both of them in public business. (Andrews.) About 1656, he with John Stanley[2] penetrated the wilderness to the west of Farmington and from a hill, carried back a substance which was believed to be black lead. The location of the mine remains a secret to this day. (Anderson's History of Waterbury, 1, pp. 117-118.) He was an extensive land-holder, owning tracts in different parts of the town. He became a member of the church in Farmington, May 9, 1658, and was made Freeman by the General Court in Hartford, May 20, 1658. (Camp, p. 379.)

d. May 1694. (Farmington Land Records, I, p. N.)

Their children:

Mary, 1643; d. m. Thomas Barnes, 2nd.; m. (2), 1679, (Savage, 1, p. 281), Jacob Bronson, as his second wife. (Barnes Family Year Book, 1907, p. 9.)

John, 1645; dead by 1713; m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thwaite Strickland. Savage says Jacob Andrews of Hartford m. Elizabeth Strickland. (Gen. Dic., 4, p. 224.)

Hannah, Feb. 26, 1647; d. May 1725; (Savage, 3, p. 534), m. about 1666, Obadiah Richards of Waterbury.

Abraham, Oct. 31, 1648; d. May 3, 1693; m. 1682, Sarah, dau. of Robert Porter[1] of Farmington. (Savage says his brother Thomas, m. Elizabeth, another dau. of Robert Porter, but he had no brother Thomas.)

f-41 Daniel,[2] May 27, 1649; m. Mary Peck.[2] (See note, Andrews-Peck.)

Joseph, May 26, 1651; d. April 27, 1706; lived in Newington; m. 1677, Rebecca Rachel, bap. April 9, 1654; d. after April 1713; m. Mar. 18, 1675-6, Ezekiel Buck of Wethersfield.

Stephen, bap. June 6, 1656; probably d. y.

Benjamin, June 17, 1659; d. 1727; m. May 26, 1682, Mary Smith; m. (2), June 14, 1710, widow Dorcas Wetmore of Middletown, dau. of James Wright of Wethersfield; m. (3), Sarah

Re: Andrews, et al, 3

Dear Ms. Read:

I cannot begin to thank you for your generosity in providing your 115 pages of research regarding the Andrews, Bolton, Fillet, and Strickland families.

As soon as I received the material on 18 August 1983, I began to read it. Of course, much of the data re. the Andrews family was already contained in my files; but I expected that. As you stated, it is difficult to find "new data."

However, your research on the Fillet and Strickland lines will be, I am sure, most helpful.

It was rather late last night when I began reading your research, so I hope you will understand if I am remiss; however, I did not locate any information stating that Ruth, the wife of Elisha Andrews Sr., had a maiden name of Bolton. Also, I found no references of the name Valleton for Elizabeth (Strickland) Andrews. Perhaps you could direct me to the print sources or notecards containing this information.

One other immediate question I have is in regard to your source verifying the marriage of Elizabeth Strickland and John Andrus, Jr. Is your authority for such Genealogical Notes of New England Families and Settlers, page 224? Have I overlooked another source for this fact? Similarly, my research revealed a marriage between Elizabeth Strickland and a ——— Andrews. Yet page 224 also indicates that this may be Jacob Andrews. I would appreciate your clarification re. your authority for this fact.

I agree that $160.00 for the Andrews Memorial reprint is a "bit steep." Wouldn't it make a nice gift though? I thought about giving a copy to my father, {another → maybe someday!

In another matter, you wrote of your research overseas. I also am beginning my research overseas, primarily Germany, Scotland, England, and Ireland. Have you had much luck?

Lastly, I still intend to send pedigree charts to you upon completion of my revisions. In addition, I plan on sending some information re. Thwait Strickland {statistics; and his wife and parents}, the Alexander Keeney family, John and Mary Andrews {birth dates, settlement in Massachusetts, and maiden name}. I am rather excited about this research, but would prefer additional verification before it is released to others. As a genealogist, I am sure you understand this position.

Once more, thank you! Your hours of work are appreciated.

Sincerely,

Deborah Susan Andrews

Re: Andrews

Dear Ms. Read:

Thank you for your letter of 9 August 1983. How nice to "hear" from you!

I certainly appreciate your offer to provide photocopies of approximately 100 pages of reference material plus nearly 100 index cards."

My check for $20.00 is enclosed as requested in your letter. Did you know the Andrews Memorial ... can be purchased as a reprint at $160.?

Currently, I am in the process of revising my pedigree charts. This is periodically necessary as I gather more and more research re. the thirty direct-line family names now included in my files. When I have completed my latest revision, I shall forward a copy to you.

With respect to my research re. Jerusha and Polly Keeney, I have limited data. As you know, genealogical research requires so much of one's time! Consequently, we must set priorities, and the Keeney family placed in the lower portion of my own priority "list." Someday...

Please be assured, however, that I shall apprise you of any sources found "along the way."

Once more, thank you for your interest and generosity. I look forward (with appreciation!) to receiving the photocopies. Please let me know if you would like any other information in addition to that cited in your letters.

Sincerely,
Deborah Susan Andrews

Dear Ms. Read:

Thank you for your prompt response to my request for the material re. John and Mary Andrews.

I certainly want to congratulate you for compiling this excellent reference. As I have also researched this line, I had much of the information your work reflected already in my files. However, the names I gleaned from your material in addition to those I had, are a valued source for my continued research.

Although your work contains a list of your sources, I would appreciate specific citations for the names and facts appearing on pages 2, 18, 67, 73, and 78; i.e. John and Mary Andrus (Andrews) the settlers; John, Jr. and wife Elizabeth Strickland; Stephen and wife Sarah Gillet; Elisha, Jr. and wife Ruth Bolton; Elisha, Jr. and wife Jerusha Keeney; and Elijah, Sr. and wife Mabel Fox. Also, could you provide clarification regarding the name of John Jr's. wife, Elizabeth. Is her maiden name Vallerton or Strickland?

With respect to your inquiry as to "where I am connected with your husband's line," I am a direct descendant of John and Mary the settlers; being a great-great-great grandaughter of Elijah Andrews, Jr. and his wife Polly Keeney Andrews. (son of Elijah Andrews, Sr. and wife Mabel Fox). (as set forth below).

Jeremiah E. Andrews, son of Elijah Andrews, Jr. and wife Polly Keeney Andrews, married Electa Shaw (his first wife). Their son, James Kinney Andrews married Amanda Wiler. One of the sons born to James and Amanda Andrews was Floyd L. Andrews; and I am the daughter of Floyd Andrews' son, James F. Andrews who married my mother, Wanda L. Mack. Floyd Andrews' first wife was Sarah Elizabeth Deatrick, my grandmother. All of the people stated in this paragraph resided in Defiance, Paulding, ~~Van~~ Putnam Counties. I have not stated specific dates, etc. because I did not want to "take-up" too much of your time. Of course, if you are interested and would like additional information re. the Jeremiah Andrews line, please let me know and I shall gladly forward such data to you.

Please be assured that any photocopies of the material you have and may wish to forward to me for my files would be most welcome and appreciated! I am more than willing to pay for your services as well as the cost for duplication. However, I understand that many researchers and authors prefer not to share their information and will understand if you choose not to comply with my request.

Again, thank you for providing a copy of your John and Mary Andrews work. With the addition of footnoted references, it will be of even more use to me; and I look forward to your response at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

Deborah S. Andrews

she was the closest in size.
(Just a thought.)

Beers 1901 of Hartford Co. Conn

was a member of no secret society, and his progress through life was made through no extraneous aid. In politics he was a Jacksonian Democrat, but had no especial desire for public office.

Mrs. Ensign, a very pleasant and genial lady, is now living in Hockanum, in the house in which she was born, but which has been modernized and converted into a beautiful home, suited for the occupancy of one holding the enviable position in society which she enjoys.

PROF. DANIEL HOWARD, M. A. The true educator wields a power second to none, and in the faithful labor of principal of the public-school system of Windsor Locks, of whom we give a brief biography, the people of that section can see an influence for good which will extend through all future time. Realizing the value of an education as only those can who have made their own way through school, Prof. Howard adds an element of earnestness to his work which is too rarely found, and every department responds to the subtle inspiration.

Prof. Howard comes of an excellent family. The founder of the family in New England, Isaac Howard, came from England to Rhode Island about 1730. He settled in western Rhode Island, where many of his descendants have resided ever since, and the Howard family has been prominent in public affairs, both locally and in the State. Two of Isaac Howard's sons were in the French and Indian war, and one of them was with Wolfe at Quebec. Another son, Daniel, the great-great-grandfather of our subject, served in the Revolutionary war, was town clerk of Foster, R. I., for twenty-five years, represented his town in the Legislature, and was for several years judge of the Rhode Island court of common pleas. His son, Daniel, was town clerk of Foster twenty-five years, represented his town for six years in the Legislature, and served nine years on the bench of the court of common pleas. His son, Horace, the grandfather of our subject, married Hannah Randall, also of Foster. He died in early manhood, but had already become prominent in educational and public affairs, and, as a delegate to the constitutional convention took an active and prominent part in the formation of the State constitution of 1843. He was a merchant. Pardon T. Howard, the Professor's father, was farmerly engaged in agriculture, and was also a land surveyor at Foster, R. I., but he and his wife, whose maiden name was Ann L. Stone, now reside in Providence, Rhode Island.

Our subject was born Dec. 15, 1864, at Foster, R. I., where his education was begun, and so well did he improve his opportunities that he was employed to teach in his home district at the age of seventeen years. For six years he taught successfully there and in neighboring towns, but being by no means satisfied with his attainments, he in 1884 began preparing for college by studying evenings, and at intervals suspending teaching for a term to attend a preparatory school. In the spring of 1888 he was elected clerk of his native town for the term of one year, at the end of which he graduated from the academy as East Greenwich, R. I., and entered Brown University, where he completed the classical course, ranking high in scholarship, winning a membership in the Phi Beta Kappa Society, and graduating in 1893. He has since done post-graduate work in the same institution, gaining the degree of M. A. In 1893 he took charge of the high school at Wallingford, Conn., remaining one year, and since 1894 he has filled his present position as principal of the public school at Windsor Locks, where, with an efficient corps of five assistants, he has an average of 225 pupils under his care.

In 1887, at Foster, R. I., Prof. Howard married Miss Sarah W. Randall, an accomplished lady, whose father, Hon. Job Randall, is a well-known citizen of Foster. They are popular in social life. Mr. and Mrs. Howard early in life became active members of the Christian Church at Foster Center, R. I., where they still retain their membership, while taking an active interest in the work of the Congregational Church at Windsor Locks.

During the struggle for Constitutional Prohibition in Rhode Island, from 1886 to 1889, Prof. Howard was an earnest advocate of the Prohibition cause, and in 1889 he was the candidate of the Prohibition party for Secretary of State.

HON. JAMES HENRY ANDREWS, a prominent representative of the agricultural interests of Farmington, is engaged in farming on the old homestead, which has been in the possession of the family for over two centuries. The first to locate here was John Andrews, who, in 1672, was one of the eighty-four proprietors of the town of Farmington. He was a plain, unassuming farmer, of good common sense, and was highly respected in his community. He united with the Congregational Church of Farmington, May 9, 1658. To him and his wife Mary were born nine children: Mary, John, Hannah, Abraham, Daniel, Joseph, Rachel, Stephen and Benjamin.

(II) Benjamin Andrews, the second in direct descent to our subject, was married May 26, 1682, to Mary Smith, and on Jan. 3, 1686, they united with the church. She died in January, 1707, and on June 14, 1710, he married Miss Dorcas Wetmore, who died Dec. 4, 1716. For his third wife he married Sarah ———. His children were: Benjamin, John, Mary, Stephen, Daniel, Samuel, Johannah and James.

(III) James Andrews, born Aug. 1, 1700, was married Dec. 9, 1730, to Elizabeth Gillet, of Suffield, Conn., and died July 18, 1761. He had two children: Elijah, born Dec. 6, 1731; and Benjamin, born June 5, 1734.

(IV) Elijah Andrews, a goldsmith, was born Dec. 6, 1731, and was married Aug. 4, 1761, to Sarah Thompson, a daughter of Timothy Thompson. She was born in Avon June 14, 1741, and died

Jan. 14, 1814; he died Sept. 28, 1803. In their family were five children: James, Lucy, Samuel, Sarah and Beulah.

(V) James Andrews, the grandfather of our subject, was born Nov. 22, 1762, and followed farming throughout life, near or on the old homestead where the family was first founded in Farmington. He was one of the brave men who fought so valiantly for the independence of the Colonies during the Revolutionary war. On March 13, 1791, he married Eunice Gillette, of Northington, who was born Jan. 19, 1768, and died July 12, 1831; he died May 31, 1845. To them were born nine children: Eveline, Fanny, Romeo, Amon, George, Lydia, Evelina, Sally and James L.

(VI) Amon Andrews, the father of our subject, was born on his father's farm March 18, 1798, and became a prosperous farmer, owning and operating some of the land belonging to the founder of the family in Farmington. He was married May 2, 1827, to Roxana Goodhue, of Avon, who was born Sept. 30, 1803, a daughter of David and Abigail (Winchell) Goodhue. She united with the Congregational Church of Farmington in March, 1829, and her husband joined the same in June, 1843. He died at his home Aug. 22, 1869, honored and respected by all who knew him; she departed this life in April, 1872. They had six children, of whom James Henry, our subject, is the eldest; Lydia, born in 1831, died when only six weeks old; Jane Elizabeth was born Feb. 10, 1833; Caroline Fidelia was born Oct. 18, 1834; Ellen Sophia, born May 13, 1837, was married Sept. 8, 1862, to George D. Wilson; and Franklin A., born Jan. 5, 1839, was married Dec. 1, 1862, to Jennie Bulkley.

(VII) James H. Andrews, the subject of this sketch, was born Nov. 7, 1828, and was educated in the Waterville District school, Farmington. He was married Oct. 8, 1861, to Miss Helen Maria Bulkley, who was born April 11, 1839, a daughter of Charles and Helen (Woodruff) Bulkley, of Avon, Hartford county. Three children were born of this union: Marian Bulkley, Sept. 11, 1862; Frederick Henry, Sept. 4, 1865; and George Franklin, Nov. 26, 1867. On Nov. 29, 1894, Frederick H. married Carrie Moore, of Illinois, and they have three children, George Henry, Raymond Bulkley and Harold Frederic. Miss Marian B. Andrews completed her education at the Hartford Public High School, and for several terms has been teacher in Hartford county.

Mr. Andrews resides on the old homestead of his father, and in connection with farming has followed mechanical pursuits. He has been engaged in the manufacture of wagon hubs and spokes in Avon, and at present is interested in the cider and vinegar business with his two sons. He takes a deep and commendable interest in public affairs, as every true American citizen should, and capably represented Farmington in the State Legislature in 1859. As a progressive and public-spirited citizen he gives his support to every enterprise which he believes will prove of public benefit. He is a sincere and consistent Christian, and has been an active member of the Farmington Congregational Church since 1858. His wife united with the church at East Avon the same year, and in 1863 transferred her membership to the Farmington church. Our subject was greatly interested in the publication of the "Andrews Memorial."

REV. THOMAS H. SHANLY, for more than two years parish priest of St. Joseph's Catholic Church at Poquonock, won, during his residence in that town, the esteem of all classes of people, irrespective of sect or creed. In addition to the duties of this parish he had charge of the Catholic Mission at Windsor, St. Gabriel's, and his untiring efforts for the promotion of the spiritual welfare of the members of both his little flocks had most gratifying results. As an orator Father Shanly possesses more than ordinary force and eloquence, and his well stored mind, genial disposition and fine executive ability show rare qualifications for his sacred calling. The following brief history of his career will be of interest, not only to his present parishioners, but to future generations of devout adherents of the faith.

Father Shanly was born Dec. 23, 1860, at Marysville, Yuba county, California, a son of John and Elizabeth (Seery) Shanly, natives of Ireland. When our subject was about six years old his parents removed to Waterbury, Conn., where they still reside, and his education was begun in the public schools of that village. Later he attended St. Charles College, at Ellicott City, Md., having made an early decision to enter the priesthood, and on leaving that institution he took a course in the Theological Seminary connected with St. Bonaventura's College, at Allegany, N. Y. In 1866 he was ordained by the learned Bishop S. V. Ryan, of Buffalo, and his first assignment to duty was as assistant to Father Creden, at Moosup, Conn. Beginning his labors there on Nov. 1, 1886, he remained until May 12, 1889, when he was appointed assistant at St. Francis Church, in New Haven, where he spent nine years. In February, 1898, he received an appointment to his late charge, and on March 23, 1900, he was appointed to the church at Westport, which he is now serving.

REV. JOSEPH TOY (deceased) was a native of England, yet a biographical history of Simsbury would be incomplete without a sketch of his life work. No man had at heart a closer interest in the welfare of the town than he, when he was a resident thereof. He was extremely conscientious, a grand and noble man; was successful in business, and amassed a fortune, but could always find time to abandon the pursuit of wealth to fill some pulpit or to address a meeting. His church work was far more pleasant to him than business, and he left to his posterity a good name, more valuable by far than his worldly possessions.

with a colony under Rev. Henry Whitfield, and settled in Guilford, Connecticut.

Eleazer Dowd, father of Thomas, was a son of Cornwell Dowd, and was born in Middletown, Conn., where he learned the trade of blacksmithing. Later he moved to Wethersfield, where he followed his trade for many years, and afterward to Springfield, Mass., dying there at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ellsworth Chapin. Eleazer Dowd married Laura Cornwell, and their union was crowned with eight children: Laura, born in 1812, was first married to Henry Cook, later to Judge Elisha Sill, and lived in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio; E. Gaylord, born Aug. 8, 1814, married Olive M. Wells, and was a carriagemaker in Wethersfield and later in Hartford, where he died March 28, 1899, the last of the family; Henry, born in 1816, was a tinner by trade, but later a hotel keeper in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, married Maria Pease, and died in Norwich, Conn., in 1877; Thomas, the subject of this sketch, was born Sept. 3, 1818; Martha, born in 1821, married Oliver Woodworth, who owned paper mills in Waterford, but resided in New London, which city was his home; Mary, born in 1822, died in 1827; Horace, born in 1825, married Lavinia White, and died in 1883 in Norwich; and Mary, born in 1831, was married to Ellsworth Chapin, of Springfield, Massachusetts.

Thomas Dowd, the subject proper of this memoir, was born in Middletown, Conn., was educated in the common schools of that city, and when a young man came to Hartford, where for a number of years he was employed as a bookkeeper by Isaac Hills & Sons, grocers on State street. On quitting this employ he for a short time carried on a grocery on his own account, and later entered the employ of Joseph S. Woodruff, who kept a meat market in the city hall, at the same time managing his farm in East Hartford.

Thomas Dowd was most happily united in marriage, in 1839, with Miss Nancy Williams, who was born Oct. 21, 1815, a daughter of Ezra and Nancy (Hills) Williams. These two families—the Williams and the Hills—were among the early pioneers of the town of East Hartford, and the farm on which Mr. Dowd lived and died and which is now occupied by his descendants, was purchased from the Indians by an early member of the Williams family. To the union of Mr. and Mrs. Dowd came five children: Arthur H., born in 1840, died in 1844; Anna Josephine is now living on the homestead; Louisa W. is also at home; T. Winthrop is unmarried and living in Sullivan county, N. Y.; and Clara A. is the wife of Alfred C. Howe, a native of Shelbourne Falls, who is now managing the Dowd estate (to this marriage two children have been born, Louise Nancy, on Nov. 5, 1896, and Eleanor J. V., on Nov. 6, 1899).

Mr. Dowd was a Republican in politics, and represented his town in the State Legislature in 1861, just at the opening of the war of the Rebellion. He was very patriotic, and although he did not serve in the war he recruited soldiers, paid them their bounties and assisted all he could at home, and was the prime mover in causing the erection of the soldiers' monument at East Hartford and in collecting the money for that purpose. During his early manhood he was a member of the Light Guards under Col. (afterward Gov.) Seymour. Mr. Dowd was elected town treasurer in 1865, and served five terms; served as assessor and later as tax collector, and was registrar of electors at the time of his death, a position he had held from its creation in 1868. He was diligent, faithful and efficient in every position he held. Fraternally he was a member of the Odd Fellows, and was captain of Putnam Phalanx, of Hartford, commanding the first company eight years; he commanded the Phalanx on the occasion of the battalion's pilgrimage to the Nathan Hale monument, in South Coventry, several years ago. He was on the major's staff for seven years. Mr. Dowd's death took place Feb. 21, 1888; he had enjoyed good health nearly all his life. He was followed to the grave by his widow Dec. 20, 1893, and their remains were interred at East Hartford. Mr. Dowd had an extensive acquaintance, and was greatly respected for his many sterling qualities, his family sharing this honorable position. Mr. Dowd was prominently identified with the establishment of the Hockanum Ecclesiastical Society, and did much to contribute to its well-being.

PHILO ANDREWS. The Andrews family is of good old Colonial stock, and the subject of this sketch, a prominent resident of New Britain, is of the eighth generation in descent from John Andrews, an early settler at Farmington, or, as the old records have it, "ffarmingtowne." This worthy pioneer became one of the eighty-four original proprietors of that town, which was at one time known as Tunxis, from the tribe of Indians located there. His homestead was situated about two miles north of the present village, on the east side of the river, near the canal aqueduct built in 1825. His wife Mary, and three sons and one daughter, united with the Congregational Church in Farmington on April 2, 1654, and on May 9, 1658, the name of John Andrews was added to the list of members.

(II) Joseph Andrews, fourth son of the pioneer, was born at Farmington May 26, 1651, and was baptized there in April, 1654. About 1677 he married, his first wife's name being Rebecca, and their homestead was located about the center of Newington, then a part of Wethersfield. His name appears on the tax-list of Wethersfield in 1693. The first record found concerning his real estate is of a vote of the town, March 19, 1683, or '84, by which he was given a small piece of land, near his mill, upon which he built a house and barn. To this property he seems to have added from time to time, as the "Andrews Memorial," an interesting history of the family, states that he became an extensive land holder. At the time of his death, which occurred

April 27, 1706, he was regarded as one of the representative men of the town.

(III) Dr. Joseph Andrews, eldest son of Joseph (II), was born in 1678, and died Jan. 18, 1756. He was a successful physician of the parish of Newington, Wethersfield, and is mentioned in the public records of "Dr. Joseph Andrus." He left an estate valued at £180, 9s, 8d, and seems to have been active in religious work, taking a prominent part in the organization of the church in his parish. In May, 1715, Joseph Talcott and Aaron Cook were appointed by the General Court as a committee to fix a location for the "meeting-house" to be built by the Society, and they chose a site within thirty rods of the Doctor's residence. On Nov. 18, 1706, Dr. Andrews married Sarah Curtis, of Southold, L. I., who died May 23, 1760.

(IV) Elijah Andrews, third son of Dr. Joseph, was born Feb. 16, 1719, and died of cancer Sept. 3, 1792. On Feb. 21, 1745, he married Phœbe Hurlburt, who died Nov. 13, 1772. Tradition says that he resided on Wolcott Hill, north of the present brick school house.

(V) Elijah Andrews, Jr., third son of Elijah (IV), was born at Newington Oct. 16, 1752, and was baptized Oct. 21, of that year. He became a tanner and shoemaker, learning the business with Deacon Timothy Stanley, of New Britain, and by his industry gained a fair competence. His disposition was kind and his manner courteous, while his conscientious piety won him the respect of all who knew him. He died at his home on the Farmington road, near Bass river bridge, on Nov. 24, 1839, aged eighty-seven years. On March 2, 1775, he married Rachel Gridley, who was born Nov. 10, 1753, daughter of Ebenezer and Azuba (Orvis) Gridley, of Kensington and Farmington, and died Oct. 20, 1836, when she was aged eighty-three. They reared a large family of children, and according to the "Andrews Memorial" all "were remarkably fine-looking when grown to maturity."

(VI) Ebenezer Andrews, second son of Elijah and Rachel (Gridley) Andrews, and the grandfather of our subject, was born Dec. 24, 1778, and baptized July 7, 1793, by John Smalley, D. D., then pastor of the Congregational Church of New Britain. He learned the carpenter's trade with Deacon John Osgood, of New Britain, and followed it successfully for many years. He was a man of amiable disposition, modest and unassuming, and was universally respected. He served in the militia, holding rank as an officer, and on Oct. 6, 1811, he united with the First Congregational Church at New Britain. In October, 1800, he married Miss Mary Griswold, who was born in 1783, daughter of Ashbel and Elizabeth (Woodruff) Griswold, and he resided on the main road between New Britain and Farmington, at the old Griswold homestead, which he bought and improved. He died Aug. 5, 1827, and his widow died Oct. 18, 1858, in Rochester, New York.

(VII) Philo Andrews, our subject's father, and the third son of Ebenezer (VI), was born May 8, 1806, and died Dec. 20, 1831. He married Miss Amelia Kelsey, who was born April 20, 1807, daughter of Samuel Kelsey, of Kensington, this county, and for some years after his marriage resided at the Kelsey homestead. By occupation he was a shoemaker, his shop being located on the homestead, and as his means increased he bought a farm north of the Kelsey property. He was a man of fine appearance and much ability, but his death, at the age of twenty-five, cut short a promising career. His wife, who died May 7, 1871, at the age of sixty-four, was active in religious work as a member of the Methodist Church at New Britain. They had two sons, Samuel Kelsey and Philo, our subject. Samuel Kelsey Andrews, born Sept. 18, 1829, inherited with our subject the Kelsey homestead from his mother, and the growth of the city in that direction made it very valuable property. Although of a retiring disposition, he was a respected citizen of his town, his excellent judgment in business and other affairs being fully recognized. Politically he was a Democrat, and while he never sought office, he served at one time on the local board of relief. His death occurred Feb. 6, 1872.

(VIII) Philo Andrews, the subject proper of this biography, was born May 29, 1831, on Stanley street, New Britain, and was educated chiefly in the academy and private schools of that town. His mother was a successful teacher, and devoted much attention to the education of her sons, in whose abilities she took natural and justifiable pride. At the age of sixteen he went to Hartford to take a position as clerk in the dry-goods store of Wellis & Kellogg, with whom he remained until their failure, a year later. After clerking a short time in another store in Hartford he found employment in the lock department of Russell & Erwin's factory at New Britain, and when Augustus & Gad Stanley established their rule factory (on the site of P. & F. Corbin's present shop) he entered their employ. As time passed he took a contract for the company, in partnership with Elford B. Eddy, and after twenty years in the factory, at the death of his brother, he retired in 1872 with a fair competence, his property including a farm adjacent to the city, which is now being encroached upon by the rapid development of the place, and has risen greatly in value of late years. In early years Mr. Andrews was a Democrat, but since 1872 he has voted the Republican ticket at every National election. He has never been particularly active in politics, but has at times been requested to take office, but refused. However, he has been a member of the Sewer committee, and has served one term as assessor and two years (1896-97) as alderman from the Second ward, acting as a member of the committee on Streets. For forty-seven years he has been a member of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church at New Britain, in which he has held various offices, and is now trustee. For fourteen years he was superintendent of the Sunday-school.

of Hartford Co. Conn. Beers 1901 died Jan. 6, 1832. Francis, born Sept. 9, 1793, died in May, 1836. William was born Oct. 3, 1795; Henry, our subject's father, is mentioned more fully below. Caroline, born March, 1799, married a Mr. Tidd, and lived in New York. Doratha (now deceased) was born March, 1801, and married a Mr. Coman, of New York State.

Henry Phelps, our subject's father, was born April 20, 1797, at Wilbraham, Mass., and was reared to farm work at the old homestead. As a young man he came to Windsor, being the first of his family to locate there, and although he began in business without other capital than his own ability and energy he managed to acquire a handsome competence. He became the owner of a farm, near Hayden's Station, and for many years manufactured brick on the place. About 1836 he bought the "Stiles farm," now occupied by our subject, and the present residence, which is one of the most substantial houses in the town, was partly built by him from brick made in his yards. As a citizen he was much respected, and at times he held local offices, being an active worker in political lines, first as a Whig and later as a Republican. He was a member of the Congregational Church, to which his wife also belonged. His death occurred Feb. 20, 1875, and his remains were interred in the cemetery at Windsor. In 1819 he married Miss Rachel Jacobs, who was born July 19, 1799, and died June 29, 1882. She was the youngest of four children of William Jacobs (born Dec. 22, 1766) and his wife Sarah Owen (born July 16, 1768), who were married Feb. 9, 1792. Her father was a cabinet maker near Hayden's Station for some years, but his last days were spent in New York State. Henry and Rachel Phelps had a large family of children, as follows: Nathaniel G., born Feb. 17, 1820, went to Missouri and later to Texas, where he now resides. Samuel O., born April 8, 1823, died in early manhood. Edgar, born Jan. 23, 1826, is a farmer at Wilson's Station, Windsor town; Mary A., born Nov. 17, 1828, married Chas. Denslow, and removed to Mendocino, Cal., where she died in 1884; Ebenezer Tidd, born July 9, 1833, died at Needham, Mass., where he was engaged in business as a horse collar maker; Henry E., our subject, was next in the order of birth; William J., born Jan. 12, 1838, was a prominent railroad man, rising from a clerkship to the position of General Passenger Agent of the Connecticut River railroad, and his death occurred at Springfield, Mass., April 21, 1882. Abraham, born Jan. 24, 1840, is a machinist at Brooklyn, New York.

Our subject was born near Hayden's Station Nov. 14, 1834, and for some years attended the schools of his neighborhood and the Bell school in District No. 5, so named because it boasted a bell, which was a rarity in those days. Among his early teachers was Col. Phelps. He also attended the academy at Windsor and a private school conducted by J. B. Woodford, while he was given practical instruction at home in the ancient and honorable science of agriculture, under the able direction of his father. Having a desire to see something of the world he went West, and later settling at Petersburg, Pike county, Ind., spent two years as a clerk in a store; but this experience satisfied him, and since his return home he has followed farming at his present homestead. For a time he worked the place "on shares" for his father and afterward for his mother, but he now owns it, having purchased the claims of the other heirs. He has twenty-five acres, and is engaged to some extent in raising tobacco. He is a thrifty manager, obtaining good results from his work, and in addition to the cares of his farm he is interested in other lines, being director in the Moore's Park Driving Association and a stockholder in the Windsor Creamery, which he helped to organize as a member of the first board of directors. In politics he is a strong Republican, and he has served his town as first selectman, tax collector and representative in the General Assembly. Socially he and his wife are prominent, and he belongs to Washington Lodge, No. 70, F. & A. M., at Windsor, and to the Episcopal Church, in which he holds the office of vestryman.

On Oct. 18, 1876, Mr. Phelps married Miss Susan Olin, and one daughter, Carrie E., brightens their home. Mrs. Phelps possesses unusual mental gifts, and when she first met her husband was engaged in teaching in Windsor. She was born April 22, 1853, at Packersville, Conn., daughter of George W. and Zippiette Elizabeth (Green) Olin, and was the third youngest in a large family of children.

CORNELIUS ANDREWS is a descendant, in the seventh generation, of John Andrews, one of the early settlers of Connecticut, who emigrated from England with his wife, Mary, in 1640. From him the line of parentage runs as follows: Daniel (Sr.), Daniel (Jr.), Hezekiah, Ezekiel, Alfred and Cornelius. The family has ever been one of the most honored in the State, and a biographical record of this branch, even though necessarily brief, cannot fail to be of deep interest.

John Andrews, the American progenitor, was one of the first eighty-four proprietors of the ancient town of Tunxis, now Farmington. He was an intelligent man, of simple tastes and plain habits, and cultivated a farm some two miles north of the present location of Farmington, at what came to be called Waterville, in 1871. The property remained in the possession of his descendants until the year last mentioned. His wife, Mary, united with the Congregational Church, April 12, 1654, and he himself on May 9, 1658. They were the parents of nine children: Mary, John, Hannah, Abraham, Daniel, Joseph, Rachel, Stephen and Benjamin.

Daniel Andrews, Sr., was born in 1650. His name occasionally appears in the town records of those early days as taking part in public business, and in 1702 the General Assembly, having been informed that great differences had arisen in Farmington about the choice of town officers, confirmed the appointment of John Hooker, Samuel Gridley, John Wadsworth, Samuel Cowles and Daniel Andross. The latter name, as spelled, is without doubt a corruption of Andrews. He was a large landholder, and left several distinct parcels of realty at his death. He united with the Church, May 24, 1692, and died April 16, 1731, in his eighty-second year. He was the father of ten children, whose names and dates of birth are as follows: Daniel, Jr., March 9, 1672; Mary, Dec. 9, 1674; Joseph, Aug. 10, 1676; Thomas, June 3, 1678; John, June 10, 1680; Martha, July 17, 1682; Hannah, Jan. 13, 1684; Paul, June 2, 1686; Stephen, Aug. 6, 1689; and Ebenezer, Aug. 28, 1692.

Daniel Andrews, Jr., the eldest son, married, Oct. 30, 1707, Mabel, a daughter of Jacob and Margery (Ingersoll) Goff, of Wethersfield. She was born Oct. 31, 1690. Her family claimed relationship with Goffe, the regicide. In 1729 Daniel and his brother, John, gave a note, or bond, for £50, to the town of Newington, in consideration of permission to connect themselves with the "Great Swamp Society," a parish lying in the town of Farmington. His home was near the boundary line between the towns of Farmington and Wethersfield. He died Aug. 21, 1748, in his seventy-seventh year, and his widow on May 9, 1768, at the age of seventy-seven years and six months. He was buried near the southwest corner of Christian Lane cemetery in New Britain, his grave being marked by a red sandstone. His eight children were as follows: Joseph, born about 1711; Abigail, July 22, 1713; Mabel, June 6, 1715; Eunice, Sept. 18, 1717; Daniel, May 12, 1720; Hannah, Sept. 8, 1723; Jacob, June 24, 1729; and Hezekiah, Aug. 14, 1731.

Hezekiah Andrews, the youngest child of Daniel Andrews, Jr., was born on the homestead. He was the first of those who "owned the half-way covenant," and became a full member of the Congregational Church in full communion on Aug. 17, 1768. He built the first saw-mill on the Quinnipiack river (called the "Pond river" in the early records), although a fulling mill had been previously established on that stream a little below the "Dead Swamp," and it is probable that there had already been a saw-mill erected near the "Great Pond" in White Oak. His wife was Anna Steadman, a daughter of Thomas Steadman and Mary Sage. She was born on Steadman Hill, in Wethersfield, June 20, 1736, and married Mr. Andrews May 26, 1757. Shortly thereafter her parents removed to New Britain. Hezekiah Andrews was of a gentle, quiet temperament, respected by all who knew him for his many virtues, and beloved because of his amiable sympathetic disposition. He died April 19, 1796, at the age of sixty-four, leaving a very considerable estate, accumulated from his farm and mill through his own industry and thrift. His widow united with the church Dec. 6, 1802, and followed him to the grave on Sept. 17, 1809, aged seventy-three years. The issue of their marriage was a family of eight children, named and born as follows: Hezekiah, June 22, 1758; Anna, Sept. 6, 1760; Lois, Dec. 1, 1763; Elizabeth, June 8, 1766; Hannah, June 11, 1768; Be Thankful, April 17, 1771; Rebecca, March 21, 1773; and Ezekiel, May 25, 1775.

Ezekiel Andrews, son of Hezekiah and grandfather of Cornelius Andrews, inherited his father's homestead, together with the saw-mill and a large farm, much of the latter consisting of woodland. In person he was rather above the average height and of singularly handsome—almost faultless—form and features. While he inherited from his mother a proud spirit and indomitable will, his impulses were generous and noble. He was public-spirited and patriotic. In May, 1809, Gov. Jonathan Trumbull commissioned him a captain in a militia regiment, and he was ever afterward given that title. He also served through the war of 1812 with the same rank. While deficient in the training to be derived from study at school, his education was obtained in the broader field of energetic action. He was fearless in the face of danger, resolute in action and strong in endurance. He was a hard worker, and at his death, which occurred at New Britain on Sept. 3, 1852, he left real property exceeding $16,000. The bounty lands to which he was entitled as a soldier were only partially entered by him, the remainder being claimed and reduced to ownership by his widow. He was a member of the Congregational Church. Mr. Andrews was twice married. His first wife was Roxana Hinsdale, a daughter of Elijah Hinsdale, of New Britain, by his first wife, Ruth Bidwell. She was born June 10, 1778, and was the mother of his large family of children. She was an earnest Christian and a member of the same church as her husband. She died Jan. 14, 1832, aged fifty-four years. She left behind her some most interesting literary reminiscences of her own religious experience and spiritual life. The children of this marriage were as follows, their names and the dates of their birth being given below: Alfred, Oct. 16, 1797; Thesta, Dec. 16, 1798; Allura, April 16, 1801; Edwin Norton, June 27, 1804; Mary Bidwell, April 13, 1807; Ezekiel, July 19, 1809; Nathan Hosmer, June 22, 1812; Roxana, April 6, 1815; Jane Louisa, Feb. 2, 1818; Elijah Hinsdale, Aug. 11, 1820; and Ellen Maria, Sept. 18, 1824. On Oct. 21, 1833, Mr. Andrews married for his second wife Huldah Goodrich, the widow of Luther Moses, who was born Jan. 6, 1788, at Simsbury, Conn. She died at Hartford May 10, 1871.

Alfred Andrews, son of Ezekiel, and next in line of descent from John, was a man of versatile genius and rare moral worth. He attended the district schools and an Episcopal academy at Cheshire, Conn. In 1815, at the age of eighteen, he began teaching the common branches in the common schools, and later became an instructor in academic branches. He had a natural aptitude for the work, and, being an earnest Christian he was honored, in 1898 and 1900, by being made the nominee of both political parties, receiving all but thirty-seven out of a total of 9,487 votes cast, and twenty-seven out of 10,348 votes, respectively.

Mr. Smith is actively and prominently identified with many fraternal, social, athletic and benevolent organizations. He is a member of Charter Oak Lodge, No. 2, I. O. O. F., and Miriam Lodge, Daughters of Rebekah; he is a charter member of Lincoln Lodge, No. 55, K. P., has always stood high in its councils, having been Master of Finance from 1894 to 1897, and is now a member of the board of trustees; is president of the Pythian Building Association. He has attained high rank as a Mason, being a member of Lafayette Lodge, No. 100, A. F. & A. M.; Pythagoras Chapter, No. 17, R. A. M.; Wolcott Council, No. 1, Washington Commandery, No. 1, K. T., and Sphinx Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S. He also belongs to Teutonia Lodge, No. 9, Sons of Herman; Charter Oak Tent, No. 27, K. O. T. M.; is a social member of the Modern Woodmen; the Hartford Saengerbund; the Hartford Maennerchor; the Hartford Turnerbund; the Hartford Rifle Club; the Republican Club; and of the Board of Trade. He has also taken a deep interest in the Connecticut National Guard, of which he has long been a tried member and efficient officer. He connected himself with that body in 1872, joining Company A, 1st Regiment, rose from the ranks to be first lieutenant, and resigned in 1891. Five years later he became a member of Putnam Phalanx, and since Feb. 22, 1898, has been adjutant of the organization, holding rank of captain.

In October, 1876, Mr. Smith was married to Miss Rose Bihl, of East Hartford. Their only child, Ernest W., was born Dec. 9, 1879, and died Oct. 14, 1884.

JOSEPH R. ANDREWS. The Andrews family has long been prominent in this section, and the ancestors of the subject of this sketch, a leading business man of New Britain, were early settlers there, a portion of the city being built upon the old homestead.

The first of the family of whom we have record, John and Mary Andrews, early settled in Hartford county, probably about 1640, he being one of the eighty-four proprietors of the ancient town of Tunxis, named afterward "Farmington." Tunxis was then as much the name of a tribe of Indians as it was of the river and land they occupied and claimed as proprietors.

Daniel Andrews, third son of John and Mary, the settlers, was born May 27, 1649. He lived in Farmington, Conn., in 1672 was recognized as one of the eighty-four proprietors, and received a division of the lands on his £44 taxable estate. He united with the church at Farmington May 24, 1692. He died April 13, 1731, in his eighty-second year. His name occasionally appears on the town records as engaged in public business; was one of the "townsmen" 1696 and later; was often employed in the settlement of estates, etc. He was a large land-holder, as appears from the land records at Farmington.

John Andrews, son of Daniel, of Farmington, born June 10, 1680, lived in the town of Wethersfield, Conn., but belonged to Kensington Parish. He died June 16, 1740, aged sixty years. He was called Sergt. John.

Moses Andrews, second son of Sergt. John, of Wethersfield, and great-great-grandfather of our subject, born May 12, 1722, at Wethersfield, near the line of Farmington, married Nov. 10, 1748, Lydia, daughter of Joseph Root. She was a woman of great Christian meekness and patience. She fitted out for the army of the Revolution six of her nine sons, by her own industry, spinning the yarn and then making the garments. She died July 6, 1806, in her eighty-first year. Moses Andrews was chosen one of the standing committee of the church of which he and his wife were members. He was a carpenter by trade, and was greatly respected. Like his father he had the military title of sergeant.

Joseph Andrews, our subject's great-grandfather, and son of Sergt. Moses, of New Britain, was born Dec. 23, 1751, and died Nov. 23, 1831, aged eighty years. He learned the carpenter's trade from his father, was also a farmer at the homestead, was a large land-holder, and built the house recently occupied by our subject's father, at No. 62 Burritt street, New Britain, that street being on the boundary line of the farm. He was a thorough farmer and good mechanic. He married Feb. 6, 1777, Lydia Judd. He was in the Revolutionary war.

Joseph Andrews, Jr., grandfather of our subject, and son of Joseph and Lydia Andrews, of New Britain, was born Jan. 4, 1791. On Jan. 9, 1817, he married Clarissa, daughter of Deacon John Osgood, of New Britain, and lived at the old home of his father, north of West Main street, about one mile from the village. He died June 19, 1824, aged thirty-three years. They had two children, John H. and Clarissa; Clarissa married Samuel W. Steele, and died Aug. 13, 1840.

John H. Andrews, the father of our subject, was born Aug. 27, 1819, at the home of his grandfather, Joseph, and was educated in the schools of that locality. While a boy he went to Wethersfield to gain a knowledge of the grocery business with Samuel J. Andrews. He inherited part of the old Andrews homestead of his father and grandfather, about one mile west of the village, and leaving the grocery business he settled thereon and engaged in general farming and tobacco culture. He added largely to the estate, having at one time at least 250 acres, including pasture lands, while in the homestead proper he had one hundred acres. The growth of the city in that direction led to the selling of many residence lots, but the greater portion of the land is still retained. He was always regarded as exceptionally industrious and thrifty, and his judgment was considered excellent in business matters and in public affairs. At the time the new Baptist church was built he served as trustee, and his influence was given to various progressive movements. He passed away Jan. 30, 1899, aged seventy-nine years. In early life he was a Democrat, but later he became an independent and then a Republican. Mr. Andrews married Julia A. Church, a daughter of James and Hulda (Barnes) Church, of Haddam, Conn., and the following children were born to them: Hattie married Anson F. Fowler, of North Guilford, Conn., and died in December, 1880; Georgianna, is the widow of Charles M. Church, late of New Britain, who died Oct. 1, 1900; Jennie died Aug. 14, 1870; James E. is a farmer and market gardener on Burritt street, New Britain; Joseph R. is our subject; John G. resides in New Britain; and Annie married F. H. Johnston, of New Britain.

Joseph R. Andrews was born June 26, 1856, at New Britain, and in boyhood attended the public schools of the place, leaving the high school during the second year of the course. In the summer of 1876 he was employed temporarily in the local post office, while the regular clerks were taking a vacation, and then, after a few months spent in assisting in the work of the farm, he became associated in business with his father and brother James, who were carrying on an extensive trade in dressing cattle for retail dealers. For four years our subject had charge of this business. The great packers of Chicago were then extending their business operations, the first to establish a branch house in New Britain being Gustavus F. and Edwin C. Swift, and Mr. Andrews, seeing the inevitable tendency of the movement, formed a partnership with them in 1881 which has ever since continued successfully, under the firm name of Andrews, Swift & Co. He has been active in municipal affairs, for four years has been a member of the board of police commissioners, being chairman at the present time, and was instrumental in securing the introduction of the Gamewell police signal system in 1898. He is also chairman of the joint board of police and fire commissioners, for the erection of the new police and fire building on Commercial street. On Aug. 9, 1890, he enlisted in Company I, 1st Regiment Connecticut National Guard, and at the second meeting thereafter, Aug. 15, 1890, was elected second lieutenant. On Jan. 25, 1891, he was chosen first-lieutenant, and Dec. 1, 1892, captain of Company E, serving until March, 1896, when, at his request, he was placed on the retired list. He and his family are prominent in the best social circles of the locality. He is a member of the Baptist Church, and has been a trustee of the same for a number of years. He is identified with the New Britain Club; the New England Order of Protection; the Royal Arcanum; Centennial Lodge, No. 118, F. & A. M., in which he is senior warden; Giddings Chapter, R. A. M.; Doric Council, R. & S. M., of New Britain; Washington Commandery, No. 1, K. T.; and Sphinx Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at Hartford.

ALVA E. ABRAMS, M. D., a prominent and successful physician of Hartford, where for fifteen and more years he has been closely and favorably identified with the medical profession, is a descendant of New York and Connecticut ancestry.

J. Danforth Abrams, the father of Dr. Abrams, and son of Elnathan and Anna (Strong) Abrams, who were farming people of Duanesburg, N. Y., where the former died in 1861, was born in 1836, at Duanesburg, and was there reared and passed the greater part of his life, engaged in agricultural pursuits. During the Civil war he enlisted and served in Company I, 137th N. Y. V. I., and lost his life, dying in 1865 at Fortress Monroe, Va. He had married Miss Susan, daughter of Elijah and Harriet (Bentley) Ladd, and a sister of George W. Ladd, of Bloomfield, Conn., and to the marriage were born two sons: Alva E., our subject; and Elijah D., a farmer and dairyman of the town of West Hartford.

Alva E. Abrams was born June 28, 1856, at Duanesburg, N. Y., and in the schools of that place received his elementary education. He was prepared for college at Little Falls, N. Y., then pursued the scientific course of study, to the Junior year, at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. Following this he taught school two years in New York State, and began the study of medicine at Duanesburg. He studied at the New York University Medical College, was graduated from the Albany (N. Y.) Medical College in 1881, and for a time following his graduation was connected professionally with St. Peter's Hospital, at Albany, N. Y. Then for two years he was engaged in practice at Duanesburg. In 1884 Dr. Abrams came to Hartford, Conn., where he became associated in practice with Dr. J. A. Stevens, with whom he remained three years, then removed to Collinsville, Conn., remaining one year. On the death of Dr. Stevens, in 1887, our subject returned to Hartford and took up that doctor's practice, and from that time to this he has been a most busy and active man, not only professionally but also in all lines of citizenship. Of studious habits and ambitious to excell, Dr. Abrams has kept abreast of the times in all lines that have tended to the advancement of his profession, and by his close attention to his professional duties and good management he has been successful in building up an extensive practice. He is a member of the City Medical Society, of the County Medical Society, and of the State Society. He is also a member of the American Medical Association, and of the American Laryngological, Rhinological and Otological Society. In 1897 he was a delegate to the International Medical Congress which met at Moscow, Russia. He is a member of the Hartford Scientific Society, and of the Twentieth Century Club; is medical examiner for the Royal Arcanum, the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Philadelphia, and the John Hancock Society of Massachusetts. He is identified with the Park Congregawas absorbed by the Wabash system. During the next five years he filled a more difficult office as commissioner for various railroad pools, which were a feature of railroad business at that time. In November, 1885, he accepted the office of secretary and general superintendent of the Canfield Rubber Company and removed to Bridgeport. He left this concern, January 1, 1889, to engaged in the rubber business on his own account. He built up a large and flourishing business, making a specialty of the Canfield dress shield patented by his father. The factory had a capacity of five million pairs annually. Branch offices were located in New York, London, Paris, Hamburg and Vienna. In 1889 he sold his interests in this business and organized the H. O. Canfield Company with a capital of $100,000, he being president, his son, Albert H. Canfield, vice-president, and another son Henry B. Canfield, secretary. This business still continues in a flourishing manner. The concern manufactures a large variety of small rubber specialties, many of which are made under patents owned by the company, of which it has exclusive control. The factory is equipped with the latest and most efficient machinery and gives employment to nearly two hundred hands.

Not only did Mr. Canfield take rank among the leading manufacturers of the state, but he was also well known through his Masonic affiliations. He was made a Master Mason, February 18, 1890, in Corinthian Lodge, No. 104, was elected junior warden in 1891, senior warden in 1892, and worshipful master in 1893. He was made a Royal Arch Mason, April 18, 1890, in Jerusalem Chapter, No. 13, and a Royal and Select Master, July 14, 1890, in Jerusalem Council, No. 16, being deputy master in 1894-95, and thrice illustrious master in 1896-97-98-99-1901. He was made a Knight Templar, June 26, 1890, in Hamilton Commandery, No. 5. He was elected most puissant grand master of the Grand Council, Royal and Select Masters, of Connecticut, in May, 1900, having served in all the subordinate offices of the Grand Council during the preceding years. He received the Ineffable Grades, December 30, 1890, in DeWitt Clinton Lodge of Perfection, and was master of ceremonies of this body in 1898-99-1900-01-02-03. He received the ancient Traditional Grades, January 19, 1891, in Washington Council, Princes of Jerusalem, of Bridgeport, of which he was junior warden from 1895 to 1901 inclusive. He received the Philosophical and Doctrinal Grades, February 16, 1891, in Pequonnock Chapter of Rose Croix, H. R. D. M., and was elected most wise and perfect master of this body in 1898, serving through 1903, having served previously in all the offices from orator up. He received the Modern Historical and Chivalric Grades, March 15, 1891, in Lafayette Consistory, S. P. R. S., thirty-second degree, and was appointed captain of guard in 1894 and served to December, 1904, when he became commander-in-chief. He was district deputy for Fairfield county of most worshipful grand master of Connecticut in 1900-01; was created a sovereign grand inspector general at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, September 17, 1901; crowned active member of supreme council, September 17, 1903, at Boston, Massachusetts. He was a member of Pyramid Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. As will be seen from this record he was a thirty-third degree Mason and held the highest offices in the various Masonic bodies, the highest in the gift of the order. In politics he was a Republican; in religion an Episcopalian.

He married, April 17, 1873, Imogene C. Freshour, born at Hopewell Center, New York. Children: 1. Joseph B., born January 21, 1874, died February 20, 1904; he was associated with his father in business. 2. Albert H., born September 19, 1875; he was educated at public schools and spent two years at Cornell University; he married, February 7, 1899, Ann Frances Stewart; they had one son, Jared O., who died May 20, 1910, at nine years of age. He was always associated with his father in the rubber business, being vice-president up to the time of his father's death and in August, 1910, was made president. He is a member of all the Masonic bodies, including Council, Chapter and Commandery, and Scottish Rite up to thirty-second degree. A member of University Club, Brooklawn Club, Country Club and the Yacht Club. 3. Henry B., secretary of the Canfield Rubber Company.

(The Andrews Line).

(I) William Andrews, the immigrant, from Hampsworth, England, was one of fifty-three persons who shipped at Hampton, fifteen miles southwest of London, about April 6, 1635, on board the ship "James" of London, three hundred tons, William Cooper, master. The ship landed its passengers at Boston, where many of them settled. Andrews was made a freeman the same year. He went early to New Haven, Connecticut, with Eaton and Davenport and was the builder of the first meeting house there in 1644. He is known to have had three sons and a daughter and is thought to have had two other daughters whose names are unknown. He married (first) ———; (second) December

Canfield

1740. He died December 1, 1760. Children, born at Branford, Connecticut: Joel, mentioned below, Gideon, born 1717, married Anne Robinson; John, Ann, Mary, Hannah, Thomas, Rev. Thomas.

(IV) Joel, son of Thomas (3) Canfield, was born at Branfield in 1711, died in 1750. He settled at Saybrook. Children: Benjamin, Isaiah, mentioned below; Hezekiah, Joel, John, Joseph, Jared.

(V) Isaiah, son of Joel Canfield, was born at Saybrook and also lived in Chester, Connecticut. According to the Federal census, in 1790 he and his father were heads of families at Saybrook, Connecticut. Children, born at Chester: Charles, Captain Ira B., mentioned below; Hezekiah, John, Caroline, Julia, Lucy S., Sophia.

(VI) Captain Ira B. Canfield, son of Isaiah Canfield, was born in Chester in 1776. He was a master mariner and captain of a vessel lost at sea. A stone has been erected to his memory in the cemetery at East Haddam, Connecticut, by the lodge of Free Masons of which he was a member. He married Melinda, daughter of Andrew and Margaret Buckingham. Children, born at Chester: Jane, Emeline, William B., Ira, Rev. Joseph A., Harriet, Jared H., mentioned below.

(VII) Jared H., son of Captain Ira B. Canfield, was born at Chester, Connecticut, May 19, 1811. He spent his early years in Chester and attended the common schools there. He then removed to Saybrook, Connecticut, and learned the shoemaker's trade. He began to manufacture boots and shoes on a small scale at New Haven at a time when large factories were unknown and all the work was done by hand. He was an expert shoe cutter and in 1842 was engaged to make patterns and cut stock for rubber shoes for Charles R. Goodyear, at Naugatuck, Connecticut, one of the earliest manufacturers of rubber shoes. He remained there until 1853. The rubber industry was then in its infancy and in the same year he went to Europe to establish the firm of Hutchinson, Henderson & Company, the first rubber factory ever operated in the old world. He not only superintended the erection of the buildings and installation of machinery, but himself devised some of the machines in use. This factory was at Montorgis, Loretta, France. In it the firm manufactured rubber boots and shoes, and it had a capacity of eight thousand pairs a day. The business was successful from the outset and Mr. Canfield continued there until 1865, when he returned to the United States and engaged in business for himself at Meriden, Connecticut. Thence he went to New Brunswick, New Jersey, where he was part owner of a rubber factory, and where he remained five years, when he returned to Connecticut and started in the rubber business on his own account. Soon after he patented the celebrated Canfield dress shield which in a short time became a popular article and made his name known throughout the country. He prospered in business and continued actively until his death, June 30, 1883. His life affords a splendid illustration of the opportunities for the mechanic who starts at the bottom of the ladder. He had skill and inventive genius, was persistent and enterprising, and as a result of the application of these qualities he performed a prominent part in the development of the rubber industry, now one of the most important in the world. In early life he took an active part in political affairs and held various public offices. He was also prominently identified with the military affairs of the state, and was a major on Governor Buckingham's staff. He was of a religious turn of mind, and when in France, that country being largely Catholic, and his employer being Protestant, he hired a hall and defrayed expenses so that they might enjoy their religious belief. He married Mary A. Andrews, born at Meriden in 1813, died in 1854, daughter of Benajah Andrews (see Andrews VI). Children: 1. Isaac A., died in 1884. 2. Elizabeth, died in France, June 6, 1899; married (first) Wilbur F. Packer, of Meriden; they had two children: Louis C. and William F. Packer, born at Meriden; married (second) Radcliffe Hicks; child: Elizabeth Hicks. 3. Henry Ogden, mentioned below.

(VIII) Henry Ogden, son of Jared H. Canfield, was born at Naugatuck, Connecticut, November 9, 1847, died in Bridgeport, July 25, 1910. He was educated there in the public schools, and then, going abroad, studied in France and Germany from 1860 to 1865. For several years he was engaged in the dry goods business in the firm of S. B. Chittenden & Company, Leonard street and Broadway, New York City. The business and plant of this firm was destroyed by fire. He then entered the employ of his father, who was at that time in the soap business in Rose street, New York, and subsequently he went to Detroit, Michigan, where he was employed by the Diamond Match Company, then to Pekin, Illinois. While there he was appointed local agent of the Peoria, Pekin & Jacksonville railroad. He filled this position satisfactorily to all concerned and was promoted to the office of general freight agent of the company, and remained with the railroad until it

7, 1665, Anna, daughter of William Gibbands, colonial secretary in 1657. Andrews died in East Haven, Connecticut, March 4, 1676; his widow Anna in 1701. Children: William, born in England, died January 3, 1663; Samuel, mentioned below; Nathan, born in 1638, ancestor of the East Haven branch.

(II) Samuel, son of William Andrews, was born in England in 1632, died October 6, 1704. He and his brother Nathan were original proprietors of Wallingford in 1670. He took the oath of fidelity to England, May 2, 1674; settled at Wallingford in 1670. His will was dated April 17, 1703, and he died at Wallingford, October 6, 1704. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Deacon William Peck, of New Haven. She died at Wallingford. (III) Joseph, son of Samuel Andrews, was born June 1, 1679. He married, Novemzer 10, 1703, Abigail Payne. His will was dated October, 12, 1741, and he died November 20, 1741. His wife died June 25, 1721. Children, born at Wallingford: Caleb, June 23, 1705; Caleb, March 12, 1706; Joseph, March 3, 1708; Giles, March 19, 1710; Mercy (twin), June 15, 1714; Mary (Twin); Nathaniel, March 16, 1717; Andrew, mentioned below; Stephen, May 24, 1721.

(IV) Andrew, son of Joseph Andrews, was born at Wallingford, August 16, 1719, died February 22, 1792. He married (first) Esther ———; (second) Elizabeth Dunbar. Children, born at Wallingford: Johanna (twin), July 31, 1740; Sarah (twin); Margery, March 23, 1742; Esther, February 24, 1743. Children of second wife: Eunice, December 6, 1746; Caleb, December 9, 1748; Margery, November 23, 1751, died young; Margery, June 14, 1752; Andrew, mentioned below; Joseph, November 26, 1758, died on the old prison ship "Jersey" in the revolution; Mary, May 20, 1766; Abigail, April 26, 1770.

(V) Andrew (2), son of Andrew (1) Andrews, was born at Wallingford, August 9, 1756, died July 3, 1834, in Sheffield, Massachusetts. He married Mary Morse, of Wallingford, born November 28, 1755-56, died in Sheffield, February 9, 1847.

(VI) Benajah, son of Andrew (2) Andrews, lived in Meriden, Connecticut. He married ———. Child: Mary A., born 1813, married Jared H. Canfield (see Canfield VII).

CANFIELD

(II) Jeremiah Canfield, son of Thomas Canfield (q. v.), was born in 1663, died March 18, 1739-40. He resided in Milford until 1727 when he settled in New Milford, Connecticut. His brother Thomas had lot 40 and he had lot 99 in the list of original proprietors of the new town. He also bought three rights and a half of Samuel Clark and much of his land was laid out when he bought it. He gave his son Jeremiah half a right in 1717. Other land was laid out to him in 1725, and at the end of the century when all the divisions had been made his estate amounted to fifteen hundred acres in New Milford. He joined the First Church there in 1736. After his death, his land was divided by his heirs. His wife Alice died January 4, 1739-40. Children: Jeremiah; Azariah; Alice, married, April 25, 1707, Josiah Bassett; Zerviah, married, December 12, 1706, Daniel Terrill; Mary, baptized April 9, 1699; Samuel, born 1701; Thomas, September 16, 1704; Jemima, 1706, married John Bostwick; Zerubbabel, mentioned below; Joseph, baptized 1711-12.

(III) Zerubbabel, son of Jeremiah Canfield, was born about 1710, died August 18, 1770, at New Milford. He came to this town with his father. He had a "Sabbath-day house" in 1745 and may have then been living in Bridgewater, part of New Milford. His homestead was that lately owned by Egbert B. Canfield. He married, July 26, 1731, Mary, daughter of John Bostwick. Children, born at New Milford: Sarah, March 10, 1733-34; Betty, October 1, 1735; Ann, September 1, 1737; Nathan, July 28, 1739; Enos, February 8, 1741-42; Lemuel, mentioned below; Hannah, July 2, 1746; Daniel, November 28, 1749, died August 18, 1770.

(IV) Lemuel, son of Zerubbabel Canfield, was born at New Milford, January 31, 1743-44. He lived on his father's homestead in his native town. He married, February 10, 1773, Sarah Burton. Dear Helen-

The Ohio Gen. Soc tells me you too have an Andrews, in Farmington CT. Perhaps we can help each other - though mostly I just need help! I do enjoy being of help to someone else - for a change.

I am from John & Mary — Andrews (no dates) dau Hannah, b 26 Feb 1647, d 1 Apr 1725 (Waterbury CT), m ca 1666 Farmington Obadiah Richards. Dixie seem Hannah listed as Hannah Andrews BARNES. So was this her mid name? -- Then their dau Rachel bap 6 May 1683 waterbury CT, m 14 June 1704 Jeremiah Peck → Anne Peck m John Garnsey. I also am descended from Jeremiah's brother Samuel → Samuel Jr → John → Abijah → Nathan, who m Nancy Kennedy - Her mother was Eunice Garnsey, g dau of the John Garnsey who m Anne Peck! Nathan & Nancy (Kennedy) Peck were parents of my # 14.

Back to Andrews: I have very little info — need John's wife's name, + all dates, of his parents (Chester!). I have a "? son of Francis of Hartford ct?" — I do have John + Mary's ch - 9 of them. And that John was of the first settlers of Farmington + was freeman 1658 (after most of his ch born — wonder why?). Would like to know more about him — what did he do for a living, etc.

Do you have any of this info? How can I help you with ch names + dates? & don't have all dates or marriages —

What's your descent? Maybe we touch base someplace else —

Sincerely,
Dorothy Branson

Dear Dorothy,

I received a note about your lineage from G.G.S. the day before I received your letter.

My husband's lineage is a bit confusing since he descends twice from the immigrants, John and Mary. He descends from their second child, John, jr. and also their 8th. ch. Benjamin.

The list of children for John and Mary Andrews as I have it is as follows: Mary b. 1643/4 (m. Thomas Barnes & Jacob Bronson); John b. 1645 (m. Elizabeth Walerton or Strickland); Hannah b. 26 Feb. 1647 (m. Obadiah Richards); Abraham b. 31 Oct. 1648 (m. Sarah Porter); Daniel b. 27 May 1649 (M. Mary Peck); Joseph b. 26 May 1651 (m. Rebecca____); Rachel b. Apr. 1654 (m. Exekiel Buck); Stephen b. 1656 d. young; and Benjamin b. 17 June 1659 (m. Mary Smith, Dorcas Wright Allen Wetmore and Sarah).

On some of the above children I have some more information, but on others, I do not. Hannah, unfortunately, I do not have anymore information than what was contained in your letter.

There is much missing information on all of these lines, as you can plainly see. Most of the books that I have found information in, seems to exactly repeat the others. The majority of information I have is from the Andrews Memorial by Alfred Andrews. There is a good chance that you could find further information on Hannah in that book.

I do not purposely research for information on the brothers and sister's of our ancestors, but I find something, I do record it.

Since I am working on all of my husband's lines and all of my own, just keeping track of direct lines is quite a job.

I will be happy to share any further information you might want. Also, I will check the books available at our library to see if there is more information on Hannah and her descendants.

Sincerely,

AMES, WILLIAM, of Braintree, had daughters, Hannah and Rebecca, born there, as early as 1642: made free in Mass., 1647. Ames has been an old name at Boston and Braintree, and has been highly respectable in Massachusetts and Connecticut, from the early settlement.

AMOS, HUGH, of Norwich, established the first regular ferry over the Shetucket River, in 1671. AMOS or AMES has a coat of arms. AMES, (Clifton and Bristol,) one.

AMOS, HUGH, made free at Boston, 1666, probably the same who was at Norwich, in 1671. Few of this name (if any) are now found in Connecticut.

ANDERSON. FRANCIS, of Hartford, d. in 1771. Ashbel Anderson, of East Windsor, d. in 1777—Abigail, his widow.

ANDERSON, GAWEN, admitted freeman in Massachusetts, 1640. JOHN, of Boston, 1647, and John, of Ipswich, in 1665. (Farmer.) Four of this name have graduated at Yale College, and four at Harvard College.

The name of Anderson, has twenty coats of arms.

ANDREWS, WILLIAM, was an early settler at Hartford; he had in the first land division in 1639, and had thirty acres; he was the first school-master, and contracted with the townsmen, to teach a year, for £16, in 1640. He was a Juror in March, 1644. He resided south of Little River, adjoining the river, west of John Hopkins' lot, and west by the road from the Mill to the country. It was ordered, Dec. 6, 1642 to appropriate £30 for the school in Hartford. In 1643, £16 was ordered to be paid Wm. Andrews, as teacher.

William Andrews had a son Samuel, b. at Hartford, Oct. 20, 1645. His daughter Abigail, d. in 1653: probably other children. There was a William Andrews in the New Haven Colony, an early settler there. He is in the list of families there, in 1643, with eight persons in his family. He was also a subscriber to the fundamental agreement made in a general meeting of all the free planters of New Haven: probably in 1639. (See note to ATWATER.) He was also at East Haven afterwards, and was not the same Wm. Andrews, the early settler of this name, at Hartford.

Samuel Andrews, supposed son of William, went from Hartford to Saybrook, and from thence to Norwich, and was a brother of John Birchard's wife.

Francis Andrews, with Samuel Martin, were recognized in the sum of £40 in 1646, to appear before the next Court at Hartford, for having put on board of a vessel at Hartford, ninety-seven bushels of corn, and left Hartford without entering the corn. Francis had sons John and Thomas baptized at Hartford, Jan. 2, 1647, and perhaps others. He purchased the north half of Richard Butler's lot, in Hartford.

The name of Andrews was early in Massachusetts. DANIEL, deputy of Salem Village, in 1689; JOHN, of Ipswich, in 1642; JOHN, of Lynn, 1650; JOHN, of Boston, 1656; JOSEPH, of Hingham, 1635; RICHARD, of Ipswich, d. in 1644; ROBERT, of Ipswich, freeman, 1635; THOMAS, of Hingham, 1635; WILLIAM, of Boston, 1634. Three of the name of WILLIAM ANDREWS, admitted freemen in 1634, 1635 and 1640, one of them of Cambridge, 1635, (one of whom was probably the school-master of Hartford,) and others mentioned by Farmer in his valuable collections. Five by the name of ANDREW; thirteen by the name of ANDREWS, and two by the name of ANDRUS, had graduated at Yale College, before 1851. Five by the name of ANDREW, and eighteen by the name of ANDREWS, had graduated at Harvard College, previous to 1851. SAMUEL ANDREW, of Milford, sold land to Jonathan Law, of Milford, Jan. 6, 1685–6. The name of ANDREW, has five coats

ANDREWS The name Andrews is the modern English form of the Latin Andreas, which signifies "a man." Some authorities say the surnames Andrews, Andros, Andreas, Andrus, Andrieux and Andre are derivations of the Biblical name Andrew. The family has been prominent in England since the days of the Norman conquest. The American ancestor of the Andrews family of Cattaraugus county, New York, is John Andrus (Andrews) who came from England in 1640, and in 1672 was one of the eighty-four proprietors of the ancient town "Tunxis," afterward Farmingtowne, now Farmington, Connecticut. He is believed to have been born in the county of Essex, England. Hinman says he was of Hartford, Connecticut, and died in 1681. His wife was Mary, died 1694. Sons: Benjamin, John, Abraham, Daniel and Joseph; his daughters were: Mary, married —— Barnes; Hannah, married —— Richards; Rachel, married —— Buck.

(II) Daniel, son of John and Mary Andrews, was born 1649, died in Farmington, Connecticut, April 6, 1731. He was one of the six original proprietors in 1672; had a division of the land; was town officer in 1702, and one of the large land owners of the town. He married and had issue.

(III) Daniel (2), son of Daniel (1) Andrews, was born in 1672, died 1748. He removed to Wethersfield, Connecticut. He married, in 1707, Mabel Goffe, a descendant of William Goffe, the regicide judge.

(IV) Joseph, son of Daniel (2) and Mabel (Goffe) Andrews, was born 1711, died about 1747. He resided in Glastonbury, Connecticut. He married and had issue.

(V) Joseph (2) son of Joseph (1) Andrews, was born in 1745. He was a soldier of the revolution; served as corporal, Ninth Company, Second Regiment, Connecticut Line, from May 11, to December 17, 1775; served as private in Captain Champion's company, Third Regiment, Connecticut Line, from May 26, 1777, to January 1, 1778. He died in 1837. He married and had issue.

(VI) George, fourth son of Joseph (2) Andrews, was born in 1780. He removed in 1815 to Knowlesville, New York, where he died in 1861. He married and had issue.

(VII) Willis M., second son of George Andrews, was born in Glastonbury, Connecticut, February 7, 1806, died September 3, 1870. In 1815 his father settled in Knowlesville, New York, and in 1829, Willis M., in company with Samuel, brother of Horace Wells, the pioneer, settled at East Otto, Cattaraugus county. About 1832 he built a house and shop at East Otto Corners, where he carried on shoemaking, later purchasing a farm near "the corners," which he cultivated until 1864, when he removed to the town of Cattaraugus, where he died. He married, January 1, 1832, in Cattaraugus, Mariette Bonesteel, born in Worcester, New York, January 8, 1810. In 1828 she came with her parents to East Otto, where prior to her marriage she taught the public school. She survived her husband until November, 1891. Children: 1. George W., born in East Otto, November 12, 1832; married, April 13, 1856, Ellen Pratt; children: Tully, Annie L., Walton F., Crissey. 2. Jerome A., of whom further. 3. Edson Alfred, born August 8, 1845, at East Otto; enlisted as sergeant in One Hundred and Seventy-ninth Regiment, New York Volunteers, April 11, 1864; he was taken prisoner at the time of the great mine explosion in front of Petersburg, and died of starvation and exposure in the prison pen at Danville, Virginia, January 11, 1865; just before his enlistment he married Ellen, daughter of Alanson King, of Ashford, New York. 4. Eva A., born October 28, 1857; married Olin G. Rich, of Cattaraugus, later of Buffalo, New York.

(VIII) Jerome A., second son of Willis M. and Mariette (Bonesteel) Andrews, was born at East Otto, Cattaraugus county, New York, January 6, 1839. He was educated in the public schools and remained with his father on the farm until May, 1861, when he enlisted in Company I, Thirty-seventh Regiment, New York Volunteers, with which company and regiment he served as private and sergeant two years. He enlisted a second time in 1865 and was commissioned first lieutenant. The following is a copy of the letter received by Lieutenant Andrews:

STATE OF NEW YORK,
Executive Department.
Albany, June 5th, 1865.

LIEUTENANT:

Herewith enclosed is a commission of First Lieutenant in the 194th Regiment Infantry New York Volunteers, conferred upon you by the Honorable R. E. Fenton, Governor of this State.

Notwithstanding the exigency requiring your service again on the field has passed, happily, away, the Governor remembering your devoted and gallant

(I) John Andrews (Andrus, Andros, etc.) was among the original settlers at Farmington, Connecticut, in 1640. His farm was on the east side of the river, two miles above the present village of Farmington. It is supposed that he and his wife Mary came from Essex county, England. They were the parents of nine children, and were members of the church at Farmington. He died in 1681, and his wife in 1694.

(II) Benjamin, youngest child of John and Mary Andrus, married Mary Smith in 1682. She died in 1707, and he subsequently married the widow, Dorcas Wetmore, of Middletown, Connecticut, who died in 1716. His third wife's name was Sarah. He died in 1727.

(III) Samuel, son of Benjamin and Mary (Smith) Andrus, was born November 20, 1695, and married in 1721 Mary Scott. She died in 1741 and he married (second) Widow Sarah Hubbard. He resided in Southington, and was a lieutenant in the militia. Southington adjoins Farmington, and was originally a part of the latter town.

(IV) Ezekiel, son of Samuel and Sarah Hubbard Andrus, was born in Southington, Connecticut, in 1745. He was married June 26, 1782, to Martha Munson, daughter of Reuben Munson (see Munson), and resided first in Farmington, later in the adjoining town of Bristol or Burlington, whence he removed to Kinderhook, Columbia county, this state. Here one of his children was born, and he soon thereafter moved to Utica, where the death of his wife occurred, August 20, 1799, from accidental poisoning. Through sickness and other causes, he suffered the loss of nearly all his property there, and resolved to make a new start in the "Black River Country." In the spring of 1800 he came to Rutland and located on a tract of one hundred and forty-four acres of land, in the wilderness, midway between the state road and the "Middle Road," as they were located in the following summer. This he set about clearing and improving at once. A part of his children accompanied him, and the others followed in the fall of the same year. His belongings were brought on a two-wheeled cart drawn by a yoke of oxen, and one horse was also included in his live stock. This animal carried part of the time, two and sometimes three of the daughters of his family. He built a log house with a cobblestone floor, and rapidly developed his estate into a fine farm, on which he continued to dwell until his death, March 14, 1828. His body rests in Brookside cemetery, Watertown. He was a worthy scion of a worthy ancestry, with the Puritan simplicity and love of justice which characterized his forefathers. He was the father of eleven children and grandfather of sixty-seven persons. His children were named as follows: Samuel and Sally (

Polly, Reuben, Phebe D., Lodema and Diadama (twins), Ezekiel Uriah and Benjamin. Polly married Warren Spaulding, and P became the wife of Danforth Earl. Lodema was the wife of Fr Woodruff.

(V) Ezekiel (2), third son and eighth child of Ezekiel an tha (Munson) Andrus, was born May 17, 1792, in Farmingto necticut, and was nearly eight years old when he came with his fa the town of Rutland, this county. He assisted in the clearing a velopment of the paternal farm, receiving in meantime such ed as the frontier schools supplied. He served at Sackets Harbor war of 1812. On attaining his majority he located on a farm same town, on which his grandson, Elon O. Andrus, now reside was an industrious and successful farmer and became one of the citizens of his part of the town. He was married January 16, 1
Tryphena Gilbert, who was born February 24, 1789, and died J 1872, in her eighty-fourth year. He survived her seven years, away August 5, 1879, in his eighty-eighth year. Their children Lodema, born December 21, 1816, died March 18, 1841. D born June 17, 1818, was married November 13, 1861, to T. N.
who died July 1, 1893; she died October 23, 1901. David, bo uary 24, 1820, married Fanny Chase, March 27, 1842. His marriage occurred May 1, 1858, the bride being Roxy Hitchco was married a third time, May 29, 1870, to Mrs. Amelia (Potter) ton. He died May 2, 1887. Alcesta G., born February 4, 182 married February 10, 1847, to Jason B. Johnson, who died Oct 1891. She resides at Copenhagen, New York. Phebe, born ber 20, 1826, was married May 14, 1851, to Philo C. Scott, a December 13, 1878.

(VI) Stillman, youngest child of Ezekiel (2) and Tryphen bert) Andrus, was born March 8, 1833, in Rutland, in which to life has been passed. His primary education was afforded by the schools of the town, and was supplemented by attendance at the River Literary Institute at Watertown. In meantime he was bu vacation periods in the labors of the home farm, to whose owner duly succeeded and which he tilled continuously until 1884, when moved to the adjoining farm, on the "Middle Road," and turne the original homestead to his son, who now occupies it. He has

Dear Mrs. Read:

I read with interest a description of your booklet on The Andrews family. In all my years of research I have never run across information that John and Mary settled in Watertown. All my information is around Farmington, Connecticut. Your source of information would be of interest to me and where in Essex County, England they lived. A short time ago I spent some time in the Ft. Wayne, Indiana, library going thru passenger lists to try to locate the home port, ship, etc about John and Mary. If you know this, it would be of help !

My sister and I are the 11th generation as follows:

1. John and Mary Andrews
2. John Jr.
3. Stephen
4. Charles
5. Nehemiah
6. Soloman
7. Luther
8. Franklin Wm.
9. Major David
10. Leon Gaylord

AMES, WILLIAM, of Braintree, had daughters, Hannah and Rebecca, born there, as early as 1642: made free in Mass., 1647. Ames has been an old name at Boston and Braintree, and has been highly respectable in Massachusetts and Connecticut, from the early settlement.

AMOS, HUGH, of Norwich, established the first regular ferry over the Shetucket River, in 1671. AMOS or AMES has a coat of arms. AMES, (Clifton and Bristol,) one.

AMOS, HUGH, made free at Boston, 1666, probably the same who was at Norwich, in 1671. Few of this name (if any) are now found in Connecticut.

ANDERSON, FRANCIS, of Hartford, d. in 1771. Ashbel Anderson, of East Windsor, d. in 1777—Abigail, his widow.

ANDERSON, GAWEN, admitted freeman in Massachusetts, 1. JOHN, of Boston, 1647, and John, of Ipswich, in 1665. (Farmer.) Four of this name have graduated at Yale College, and one at Harvard College.

The name of Anderson, has twenty coats of arms.

Richard Anderson, Martin and Edward Atkinson, and others, embarked in the Merchant's Hope, Hugh Weston, Master, after the usual examination at Gravesend, &c. Probably in 1635. JOHN ANDERSON, SEN., made free at Boston, 1673.

ANDREWS, WILLIAM, was an early settler at Hartford; he had the first land division in 1639, and had thirty acres; he was the first school-master, and contracted with the townsmen, to teach for, for £16, in 1640. He was a Juror in March, 1644. He lived south of Little River, adjoining the river, west of John Hopkins's lot, and west by the road from the Mill to the country. It was Dec. 6, 1642 to appropriate £30 for the school in Hartford. 1643, £16 was ordered to be paid Wm. Andrews, as teacher.

William Andrews had a son Samuel, b. at Hartford, Oct. 20, His daughter Abigail, d. in 1653: probably other children. There was a William Andrews in the New Haven Colony, an early settler there. He is in the list of families there, in 1643, with eight persons in his family. He was also a subscriber to the fundamental agreement made in a general meeting of all the free planters of New Haven: probably in 1639. (See note to ATWATER.) He was also at East Haven afterwards, and was not the same Wm. Andrews, the early settler of this name, at Hartford.

Samuel Andrews, supposed son of William, went from Hartford

7, 1665, Anna, daughter of William Gibbands, colonial secretary in 1657. Andrews died in East Haven, Connecticut, March 4, 1676; his widow Anna in 1701. Children: William, born in England, died January 3, 1663; Samuel, mentioned below; Nathan, born in 1638, ancestor of the East Haven branch.

(II) Samuel, son of William Andrews, was born in England in 1632, died October 6, 1704. He and his brother Nathan were original proprietors of Wallingford in 1670. CANFIELD

(II) Jeremiah Canfield, son of Thomas Canfield (q. v.), was born in 1663, died March 18, 1739-40. He resided in Milford until 1727 when he settled in New Milford, Connecticut. His brother Thomas had lot 40 and he had lot 99 in the list of original proprietors of the new town. He also bought three rights and a half of Samuel Clark and much of his land was laid out when he bought it. He gave his son Jeremiah half a right in 1717. Other land was laid out to him in 1725, and at the end of the century when all the divisions had been made his estate amounted to fifteen hundred acres in New Milford. He joined the First Church there in 1736. After his death, his land was divided by his heirs. His wife Alice died January 4, 1739-40. Children: Jeremiah; Azariah; Alice, married, April 25, 1707, Josiah Bassett; Zerviah, married, December 12, 1706, Daniel Terrill; Mary, baptized April 9, 1699; Samuel, born 1701; Thomas, September 16, 1704; Jemima, 1706, married John Bostwick; Zerubbabel, mentioned below; Joseph, baptized 1711-12.

(III) Zerubbabel, son of Jeremiah Canfield, was born about 1710, died August 18, 1770, at New Milford. He came to this town with his father. He had a "Sabbath-day house" in 1745 and may have then been living in Bridgewater, part of New Milford. His homestead was that lately owned by Egbert B. Canfield. He married, July 26, 1731, Mary, daughter of John Bostwick. Children, born at New Milford: Sarah, March 10, 1733-34; Betty, October 1, 1735; Ann, September 1, 1737; Nathan, July 28, 1739; Enos, February 8, 1741-42; Lemuel, mentioned below; Hannah, July 2, 1746; Daniel, November 28, 1749, died August 18, 1770.

(IV) Lemuel, son of Zerubbabel Canfield, was born at New Milford, January 31, 1743-44. He lived on his father's homestead in his native town. He married, February 10, 1773, Sarah Burton. Children, born at New Milford: Daniel, October 29, 1774; Ann, July 26, 1776, married Ephraim Munson; Burton, mentioned below; Charles A., September 24, 1781; Augustine, January 15, 1784; Lemuel, March 26, 1787; Orlando, April 4, 1794.

(V) Burton, son of Lemuel Canfield, was for a passingway to the sd. 14 acres. I do give to my son Jonathan Buck all that tract of land lying south on lands given to my wife, bounding on lands of Enock Buck south and west, and on a highway east. I give to my son Stephen Buck 13 acres of land lying in the west division, west on Farmington, east on his own land, south on land of Jonathan Buck, Jr., north on lands of Mrs. Jemima Chester. I do give to my beloved daughters, namely, Hannah, Abigail and Comfort, the rest of my movables, to be equally divided between them. I have given to my daughter Rachel Bronson, deceased, and to Sarah Welton and Mary Kelsy their whole portions already, and to my eldest son Ezekiel Buck his portion. I do make my son Enock Buck my executor.

The reader will observe by the above Charter, that this Plantation was some 15 miles square—giving plenty of room to spread themselves, which has been literally done in making 7 towns from this one. It soon made a prominent, and influential town, was attractive to farmers for its natural meadows, and alluvial bottoms. The Tunxis river overflowed its banks every year, making rich meadows, and plenty of hay for their stock.

John Andrews (so spelled on the earliest land records) was a plain farmer, with common intelligence, had his farm homestead on the east side of the river, near to where the canal aqueduct (1825) was made, and is about 2 miles north of the village of Farmington, the locality now, 1871, called Waterville, and the farm has remained in the possession of his direct descendants to this date, 1871. The name of his wife was Mary, who united with the church there 2d April, 1654, with her sons, then under the age of 13 years, viz. Abraham, age 6 years 3 months; Daniel, 3 years 10 months; Joseph, 2 years 3 months, and her daughter, Rachel, was baptized 9th of the same month. John Andrus, sen., the father of the family, joined the Congregational Church of Farmington, 9th May, 1658, and on the 16th day of May, 1658, were baptized Mary, in her 14th year, John, about 13 years, and Hannah Andrews, about 11 years old. In a list of 42 families in full communion of the church in 1679, which list seems to be graded, and ranked in reference to "dignity and standing," John and Mary Andrews are No. 14 in the list of enumeration, showing a rank among the first third. This early settler of Tunxis was a near neighbor of Dea. Isaac Moore, and Capt. John Standley, and is occasionally referred to, as associated with one or both of them in public business. He is referred to in an Indian deed of land, in "matetacoke to Wm. Lewis and Samuel Steele, 8 Feb. 1657, and wit. by John Steel, that is to say the hill from whence John Standley and John Andrews brought the "Black lead," and all the land within eight mylle of that Hill* on every side to dig and carry away what they will, and to build on it for the use of them that labor there, and not otherwise to improve the land." This deed is signed by the mark of Kepaquamp, Querrimus, and Mataneage. This shows that John Andrews was one of the bold explorers of that early settlement, and that he and his associate, Capt. John Standley, actually brought from that locality real "black lead," or what they and the town of Farmington supposed to be such.

John Andrews made free in Hartford by Gen. Court, 20th May, 1658.

"John Andrews died 1681, and Mary, ye aged wife of John Andrews, May, 1694."

John Andrews and Joseph Andrews were witnesses to a deed of lands in Simsbury, by 13 Indians, 1680, Book 1st, Land Records of the State, 105th page; so says Phelps, in his History of that town. The probability is that these Indians met at the dwelling house of John Andrews, sen. (the locality now, 1871, called Waterville,) when the deed was executed, one year before he died. John, jun. is supposed to be then living in Hartford, so that the witnesses were doubtless John, sen. and his fourth son, Joseph. John the settler was a landholder in Hartford, as appears by a deed of Asahel, his great-grandson, dated 1758, at Massacoe, or Simsbury, of lands in Hartford, once owned by John his father, and also by his grandfather John. That he was a large landholder appears from entries in the form of a memorandum on the first book of land records, dated as an entry Feb. 1665. (As the first records of the town were burned) I take this entry to be done at a later or subsequent date to the fire, at one time, and in one hand, as follows, viz:

Lands belonging to John Andrews, (so spelled) of Farmington, in the jurisdiction of Connecticut, in New England, and to his heirs forever, viz., One parcel of land on which his dwelling-house now standeth, with their yards and gardens, containing eight acres, four acres of which he bought of Thomas Upson, and abuts on the river on the west, on highway east, on Thomas Webster's land, south, and on John Stele, north.

One parcel in second meadow, containing 16 acres, 8 acres of which he bought of Thomas Upson, and abuts on river west, on common land east, on John Lee, south, and on common swamp, north.

One parcel of 12 acres, 6 of which he bought of Thomas Upson; it is plow land and upland.

One parcel of land on third meadow, containing 5 acres, and abuts west on the river, &c.

One parcel containing 10 acres of upland, which the town gave him, and abuts on highway leading to the mountain.

One parcel of 3 acres, with a messuage or tenement thereon, he bought of Moses Venters, of Farmington; it abuts west on the river.

One parcel of wood-land, containing four acres, given him by the town, and abuts west on John Lee's land.

A.D 1673 was divided to him by the proprietors, 93 acres.

Copy of the original Will of John Andrews, sen., of Farmington.

"I John Andrews being grown aged, and many weaknesses attending of me from time to time, and now at this present it pleaseth the most high to visit me with more than ordinary weakness, yet through the good hand of God upon me, I have at this present the perfect use of my understanding, now I do think it meet to set that little at a stay, as I am able that God hath given me; all my lawful debts being discharged, I dispose of my estate as followeth:

Item. I give and bequeath unto my dear and loving wife Mary Andrews, the new end of my dwelling house, and the seller under, for her use and comfort as long as it shall please God to continue her natural life; I do also give her the use of half my orchard, the fruit of it as long as she liveth; moreover I do give and bequeath unto my dear and loving wife, my feather bed, with all the furniture belonging to it, and when it shall please God to end her natural life my mind is that she shall have liberty to dispose of it to whom she please.

Item. I do give unto my son Benjamin Andrews, my whole house and barn and home lot, after my loving wife's decease. My mind is that my son Benjamin shall possess after my decease half my house and my home lot and barn wholly for his to possess, as also the household stuff, reserving that liberty that my wife shall use that she shall need.

Item. I give to my son Benjamin my meadow lot, excepting two acres at the lower end of it, as also two cows to my son Benjamin, and one to my loving wife, yet moreover I give to my son Benjamin Andrews, my splayed mare, and my crown mare, and my two youngest working bullocks, and my cart, and plow, and plow-irons, harrow, plow-chains, horse chains, half a timber chain, and all my tackling that belongs to my teame, and my will is that my son Benjamin shall have these things above mentioned upon that condition, that he maintayne his dear mother comfortably, as long as her natural life continueth, and if it so fall out that my loving wife doth want a comfortable subsistence my will is that she shall have power to sell so much of my meadow land as she shall need to obtain a comfortable livelyhood.

Andrews Mem.

1659

Item. I give to my son John Andrews one of my old bullocks, my long fowling piece, and my lot adjoining of land that abutteth upon Hartford bounds.

Item. I give to my son Abraham Andrews my old mare and her sucking colt, and my 20 acre lot in the great swamp adjoining his own lot.

Item. I give my son Daniel Andrews two acres of my meadow land at the lower end, beginning at the dividing line between John Stanley, jun. and myselfe, running from the river westward, to the ditch eastward, and my mind is that he shall maintain the common fence that belongs to two acres, and I give him my upland lot that belongs to my twenty acre swamp lot, and my two year old horse coalte, and also I give to my son Daniel Andrews two swine that are one year old.

Item. I give to my son Joseph Andrews my other old bullock, also I give to him my upland lot containing 40 acres, that lyeth near the Middleton path.

Item. I give to my son Benjamin all the divisions of upland that belong to me, that are not yet laid out, moreover, I leave the rest of my swine, and my corn I leave to discharge my debts in my son Benjamin's hands, as also he shall pay some small legacies.

Item. I give to my grand-child, Thomas Barnes, twenty shillings.

Item. I give to my grand-child, John Andrews, one pound.

Item. I give to my grand-child, Abraham Andrews, one pound.

Item. I give to my grand-child, Daniel Andrews, one pound.

Item. I give to my grand-child, Ezekiel Buck, one pound.

Respecting my grand-child, Joseph Andrews, my son John Andrews son, if he sees meet to let him continue with my wife and my son Benjamin till he is one and twenty years, he shall have fifteen pounds, and two suits of apparel. If he sees cause to take him away before he is of that age, I do give him nothing, and he shall pay nothing for the time I have kept him.

Item. I give to my daughter, Mary Barnes, my black heifer, that is two years old.

Item. I give to my daughter, Hannah Richards, two yearlings.

Item. I give to my daughter, Rachel Buck, my two year old red heifer.

My will is that my son Benjamin Andrews shall be my whole and sole executor, and I desire my loving friends, Capt. John Stanley, and Isack Moore, to be the overseeing of my will with my son Daniel Andrews.

[illegible] second consideration of my will, considering the contents thereof, and my just debts being considered, I find them more than I expected, [illegible] my whole and sole testament, and determined will, that all the [illegible] such as are mentioned, and given by will to my loving wife & Benjamin [illegible] liberty for the discharging my just debts [illegible] as I judge expedient, all just debts being [illegible] charged, my will is that the legacies shall have what remains of my cattle, except those given to my loving wife and my son Benjamin, by that proportion as is specified in my will to them. Furthermore I give to my executor that liberty to pay the legacies to my grand-children within six or seven years.

Imp. All my wearinge linnin, not before given, I give to my grand-daughters in general, to be equally divided amongst them.

Imp. All my wooling clothinge not before given, I give to my daughter, Rachel Buck. This above written instrument to take place and be of full force after my decease, and not while then. I do also desire my son Daniel Andrus, to take care that my mind declared in this above written instrument be fulfilled.

In witness whereof, I the above said Mary Andrews, have sett too my hand and seal this 18th day of Nov. A. D. 1683.

John Standley, sen. John Hooker. } Wit. Signed and sealed. Mary Andrews.

Thus we see above that our progenitors had not only gathered a snug little property for those early times, but were scrupulously careful to have it divided among their children and grand-children in a just and equitable proportion, at their decease. The aged patriarch in writing up his will seemed to be troubled that his debts were so much, £2 6*s.* 6*d.*!!! What an insignificant sum, you exclaim. It proves that the early settlers abhorred debts, and were very careful to shun them. I regret exceedingly to be under the necessity of going to press without giving date of the birth of our progenitor, or where born, or the full maiden or family name of his wife Mary. The supposition is that they were both born in Essex Co., England

APPENDIX,

CONTAINING ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS.

Early Puritans

A.

Abbey, Samuel, Windham—died in 1698—wife Mary. His children were, Mary, 25 years of age, Samuel 23, Thomas 20, Eleazer 18, Ebenezer 16, Mary 14, Sarah 13, Hepzibah 10, Abigail 8, John 7, Benjamin 6, and Jonathan 2.

Ackley, Nicholas, chimney viewer of Hartford, 1662.

Adams, Edward, resided at Fairfield in 1653. Ephraim, of Simsbury, 1730. Edward, in 1660, married Elizabeth Buckland—whether he was the son of Edward, of Fairfield, is not known—he had a daughter Mary. Jeremiah, of Hartford, (in No. 1,)—was the only person in Hartford, in 1660, allowed to sell wine in a less quantity than a quarter cask, or other liquors less than an ancor.

Adgate, Thomas, Norwich, 1660—was a deacon of the church in Saybrook in '59. He is not found upon the colony record in any town previous to his being in Saybrook. While there he married the widow of Richard Bushnell. Was made free in '63.

Adkins, Thomas, (probably now Atkins)—died in 1694. His children were, Mary aged 22, Thomas 21, Mary 19, Jane 16, Josiah 9, Sarah 12, and Benoni 4. Estate £182. Josiah died in '90—wife Elizabeth—children, Solomon, aged 12, Josiah 10, Benjamin 8, Ephraim 5, Sarah 16, Abigail 14, and Elizabeth 3.

Andrews, John, sen'r., Hartford—died in 1681—wife Mary. His children were, Benjamin, John, Abraham, Daniel and Joseph. He had grand children, Thomas Barnes, John Andrews, Abraham Andrews, John Richards, Daniel Andrews, Ezekiel Buck, and Joseph, the son of his son John. He had daughters, Mary Barnes, Hannah Richards, and Rachel Buck. He gave each of his grand children named, a legacy.

Andrews, Edward—died in 1673—was a brother-in-law of Josiah Adkins. He left a wife and children. Josiah Howlton married his sister. Gideon, of Fairfield, juror in 1730. Thomas, of Middletown, died in 1690, and left children, Thomas, John, Samuel, Hannah, Elizabeth, Sarah and Abigail.

Allyn, Matthew, (in No. 1,)—stated by Miss Caulkins, as having been a brother of Robert, who early settled at Saybrook, and afterwards at New London. All the descendants of Matthew spell the name (Allyn,) instead of (Allen) in and about Hartford; so that their signs upon their buildings show their descent from Matthew. He so spelt his own name. He was a petitioner for the Charter of Connecticut. Robert, was one of the principal settlers of New London, 1648.

Alsope, New London, 1674. He is supposed to be Joseph Alsope who came to New England in the Elizabeth and Ann, Roger C. master. Thomas came in the same vessel at another time.

Armstrong, Jonathan, New London, 1671.

Arnold, Joseph, Haddam—died in 1691. His children were, John 29 years old, Joseph 26, Samuel 23, Josiah 21, Susannah 16, Jonathan 12, and Elizabeth 9. This name is yet at Haddam in the person of the sheriff, Charles Arnold, Esq. Samuel had his share of the estate at Machemoodus (in East Haddam,)—he probably moved there.

Ashley, Jonathan, sen'r., Hartford—died in 1704. His son Joseph was his executor. He married a daughter of William Wadsworth, sen'r. His children were, Jonathan, Joseph, Samuel, Sarah and Rebecca. He gave four score acres of land in Plainfield to his son Samuel. His family appear to have been a distinct family from that of Robert, of Massachusetts.

Atwood, Capt. Thomas, Hartford, 1664—was an early settler.

Atwood, Doct. Thomas, Wethersfield—died in 1682, and left a wife, Abigail, and children, Abigail, aged 14, Andrew 11, Jonathan 7, and Josiah 4. He was a son of Capt. Atwood, of Hartford. One of the descendants emigrated to Woodbury or Waterbury.

Avery, James, New London, (in No. 1,)—was ordered in case of a war with the Dutch in 1673, to act as captain, Thomas Tracy, lieutenant, and John Denison, ensign, for the county of New London, over such forces as should be called out. Commissioner in '63.

B.

Babcock, James—was born in Essex, England, in 1580. In 1620 he moved to Leyden, in Holland, and remained there nearly three years, and being a strict Puritan in his faith, he removed from Holland to Plymouth in 1623, and arrived in July of that year. He came to this country in the ship Ann. He had four children born in England who came with him, viz. James, John, Job and Mary. He lost his wife by death, and married a second wife in 1650. He soon had a son—he named him Joseph; this son, between 1670 and '80, emigrated to Connecticut, and settled in the vicinity of Saybrook, and was the ancestor, in this State, of the family at Hartford, New Haven and other parts of Connecticut.

Backus, Stephen, Norwich, 1660—married Sarah, a daughter of Lyon Gardiner, the first Lord of Gardner's Island. His sons, Stephen born in '70, and Timothy in '82. Stephen moved to Plainfield, afterwards to Canterbury.—F. M. Caulkins. William, was early found at Saybrook, and made free in '63. The name was at Saybrook at a much earlier period, (in '38); he afterwards became a proprietor of Norwich.

Bacon, Elizabeth—died in 1670–80, widow of Andrew, deceased, of Hadley. She returned to Hartford after the death of her husband, (being old.) One of her daughters married Caleb Stanley, to whom she gave her house and lands in Hadley, and the share of Isaac, her son, deceased, in his father's estate, which was then hers. She had

Dear Helen

Thank you again for adding to my family genealogy with the additional things you sent. I am especially grateful for the Fanny Cook Moffett treatise by George Chandler of Worcester. Should you ever find where this is located (or recall) I'd be glad to know.

A few days after receiving your material we went to Washington for a week over Thanksgiving. I spent 3½ days downtown using the Natl. Archives and the D.A.R. Library.

At the latter, I found the genealogies of the Chandler and Andrews families and was able to Xerox the appropriate pages. I also found "The John Perrin Family of Rehoboth, Massachusetts" by John Perin of Marion, Indiana. I xeroxed the portions up to and including Susanna Perrin who married Capt. John Chandler.

In case you don't have this Perrin info, I enclose copies for you.

My brother-in-law and wife live in Seekonk, Mass. and the name Rehoboth is always heard when we visit there. Am anxious to get back there as my sister-in-law's mother was a Chandler so very likely we tie in seven-eight generations back. A family member has a Chandler record so hope she'll get it and we can compare when we visit next summer.

John Perin, compiler of the work mentioned earlier lives in Marion, IN not far from Ft. Wayne. He wrote me that he did a lot of his work in Ft. Wayne library. Since you mentioned doing a lot there, too, it must be a good library.

Guess I'll have to use the Buffalo sources more. I applied for a stark pass a couple of months ago only to learn they are discontinuing them. It will slow researchers down considerably.

Have a happy holiday season. I'll keep you advised of any material I find and hope you'll do the same. Let me know if you think you might desire any Moffett info that I might have.

Sincerely yours,
Warren

Hon. Harlan P. Andrews, an ex-member of the State Assemb. and a' rep. citizen of the town of Cuyler, this county, is a son of James and Esther (Clough) Andrews, and was born in the town of Fabius, Onondage Co., N.Y. Oct. 12, 1837.

The family is of New England stock; his g-father, William Andrews, was a native of Winsted, Litchfield Co., Comm. born Aug. 21, 1766, and there grew to manhood. He married Miss Gosley, Dec. 3, 1786 in Glastonbury, Conn. and reared a family of seven ch. four of whom were born in Winsted, Conn. as follows; Seldon; William; Lucy and James. The other 3 were born in Fabius. They were Elezar, Clarissa and Jerusha. William Andrews made agrig. his life work; he took up a tract of Govt. land, consisiting of 160 acres, in what is now known as Keeney's Settlement. He afterward added to this by purchase, until he owned 200 acres, upon which he was at last overtaken by death. He was a memember of the Methodist Epis. Ch. and took a very active part in all thet pertained to it. He was one of the organ. of the church at Fabius, filled nearly all the offices at dif. tiems, and was class leader and steward. He gave liberally to thecause sodear to his heart, and his house was the home of the ministers during the time the ch. was in its infacny. He was an old-line Whig and a strong Abolionist, holding very decided views and not at all afraid in giving them to utterance.

James Andrews was also a native of Winsted Conn. Born April 14, 1796 coming to N.Y. st. at an early age. His life was devoted to husbandry and dairying. Fifteen yrs. prior to his death he moved to the village, where he lived a retired life surrounded by his friends. He was a Rep.-Abolishtings. He was with the Baptis Ch. of Fabius, after his removal to the village having pre. been a memb. of the ch. of the same dem. at Keeney's Settl. where he had served in most of the offices. His wife was Esther Clough, b. June 18, 1799 at Fabius, she was the mother of 7 ch. Henry, Harriet, d. 2tims m. James F. minister Syracuse, Abel, d. Elon, d. Melvina , and Harlan

Dear Sir;

I have been researching my husband's genealogy and wonder if you could suggest some places for further research on a particular line.

The information I have is as follows:

William Andrews Jr.
b. Nov. 20, 1793 - Glastonbury, Conn.
m. April 30, 1820 to Violet Burnham Andrews
ch. Alida Jennette (m. Chester Collins)
Orissa Elizabeth (m. Matthew Read)
Henry William (m. Frances Chase)

William Henry Andrews was supposed to have been a sheriff of Cortland Co., a clerk of the State Prison at Auburn, and a magistrate and police judge in the town of Homer. The family were members of the Episcopal Church of Homer.

I would like to know the death date of this man which was probably before 1850, as I did not find him with his family in the Census.

Any information or suggestions would be appreciated greatly.

Please inform me of any fees I might incur.

Sincerely,

Helen C. Read

Dear Helen,

I was looking thru my Andrews file for some mention of when I wrote last and all I could find was my letter from a month ago. I could have sworn I wrote to thank you for sending your booklet, but apparently not. Things have been a little hectic around here getting back into the fall schedule. With the boys in school (one in 2nd grade, the other in kindergarten), I thought things would quiet down some! But I guess that comes in a few years, when they're all in school. Anyway, thank you for sending your booklet. I'm very pleased to have a copy. I like the numbering system you use. It's very easy to follow. I see you also have more info than Alfred Andrews did on John-100 the name of his wife, Eliz. Strickland.)

Also thanks so much for your letters and enclosure. It's so nice you have a chance to get out and do some research. It's a pretty rare occasion for me! Your trip to D.C. sounds great--I hope you get to go. Unfortunately I only got down there once while we were living in PA, and then only for about 6 hours in the Library of Congress (I'm sure I could have spent at least that many days there!) I hear the DAR Library is great, but it's only open weekdays. Since I could only get away on the weekends, I never got there.

This bit on Mary Keeney Bidwell sounds like it might be in the right Keeney family. Too bad the sources weren't listed. I was thinking, if this Robertson book doesn't show up in Ft. Wayne, I could write the Conn. State Libr. to see if they have it (if they don't have it, I don't know who would!) I could have them send, say, the first 10 pages (copies)--that should give us an idea of whether or not it's the right line. Also, I don't think I'll be going up to Hartford in the near future, so I won't be able to go to the library in person — probably not in the next year. Of course, another possibility, if you do make it to D.C., is if the DAR Libr. has it. I went back over my notes as to what I checked in the Libr. of Congress and came up with books by Edwin Beitzell, Emerson Kinne and another by Robertson (another line). None had what we wanted. As I remember, the first two were on Mass. families--there was a large Kinney family around Salen and Boston, the immigrant, Henry, arriving before 1638. I couldn't see where any of them were possibly related to those in Conn, tho.

if you go there

As you can see, I'm enclosing your copies of our pictures. I was a little disappointed with the results. (I'm going to try another place to see if they can get better copies.) I had to have the copies made from the prints, as my mother couldn't locate the negatives (it's been 6 years.) The originals are easier to read and more of the stones can be seen. In case you can't read them, the stones say: In memory of William Andrews who died July 15, 1831 in the 65th year of his age; Lucy, wife of Wm. Andrews died Sept. 16, 1863 aged 92 years. As I mentioned, they're in the Keeney Settlement Cemetery. As you enter the cemetery, the majority of stones are facing you. There are some in the front area, which is flat, then the land slopes up as you go towards the back, so that Wm. and Lucy are on a slight hill to the left at the back with the other older stones. But, curiously, their stones are facing the other way, not towards the road. It made me wonder why. I seem to remember reading somewhere that there was a Keeney Settlement Church, that's no longer in existence. Maybe it was here and the stones faced it. Whatever, there must be some reason these and the other old stones are faced this way. Also, I should mention, the hamlet of Keeney Settlement is actually in Cortland Co. in the T. of Truxton. The county line is right on the south side of the cemetery. Back up the road, towards Fabius, is the Andrews cabin. I don't know why they spelled his name wrong at the bottom, especially when they had it right on top. Maybe they couldn't decide which was right. Or maybe it's just a case of "bureaucratic bungling." Anyway, as you can see, if it was a log cabin once, it's now shingled over!

I've been hoping to take a drive over to Hudson some nice fall afternoon. Would you happen to have the address of the Hist. Soc. there where you said Lucy's picture was? And would you happen to know the hours and days they're open? I was thinking--I wonder if they would allow me to take a picture of the picture, rather than just a photocopy. My husband has a 35 mm camera and I might be able to get a decent shot.

I'd better go--my 13 mo. daughter, Joanna, woke up from her nap and is headed this way. My typing is bad enough without her help!

Sincerely,

Laurie

Mrs. Lucy Andrews Pleasantly Observed Birthday at Daughter's Home

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Andrews and sister, Mrs. Lovilla Wakefield, went to Como Saturday to participate in the festivities attending the 92d birthday of their mother, Mrs. Lucy Andrews, which occurred that day. Mrs. Andrews has for a few years past made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur B. Smith. Her entire life of more than fourscore and ten years has been spent in the nearby locality. With the exception of five years spent in Scott, she has lived all of these years in the town and village of Homer, until a few years ago when she went to live with her daughter at Como.

Mrs. Andrews has been remarkably well preserved, and has retained her faculties to a marked degree, impaired hearing being her only annoyance.

For many years her life was a particularly active one guiding, as she did to mature years, her family of seven children, five of whom have been spared to be a comfort to her in her declining years. During her long life, covering a period of more than nine decades, wonderful changes have been wrought, and the stories which she might relate of her early day experiences would seem incredible to the rising generation. The many present day inventions could never have been dreamed of in her younger days, but she has been spared far beyond the allotted age of man, and has witnessed the introduction, one after another, of the many improvements made in all branches of business. She is interested in current events and takes great pleasure in the society of her family and friends.

Mrs. Andrews' many friends will offer congratulations upon her reaching such a venerable age, and will hope that as she is nearing the evening of life's journey the Good Father's blessing may rest upon her and that her last days may be reckoned among the best of her long life.

Dear Helen,

Thanks for the copy of the article on the settlement of Keeny. I enjoyed reading it and learning when exactly William Andrews arrived. Imagine 28 people sharing a cabin! And I wonder why the pioneers returned to Keeny in February of all times.

Sounds like you've been having fun researching this other family's genealogy. I made it to D.C. once to research, but only to the Library of Congress, as the D.A.R. library was closed. I guess since then they've decided to open on Saturdays, but at that time weren't.

The planned trip to Albany sounds good, too. Coincidently I'm going to Albnay the end of next week. I'll be attending the first reunion of the Bradt family (the first in recent years, at least.) We're celebrating 350 years since the two brothers Arent and Albert arrived and settled in the Albany and Schenectady areas. I'm descended from both brothers, one on my mother's side and the other on my father's side (I'm my own 9th cousin.) The reunion is Fri, Sat, and Sun. While there, I was planning on going to the Albany library. Luckily I called to check their hours and found they're not open on weekends. So now I'm planning on going there on Thurs to get at least a few hours of research in while I'm in the area. I'm sure it'll just be a drop in the bucket, tho, as I have many names to research, in particular several from Albany Co. By the way, my Bradt on my mother's side is the one who married Lucy Clough, whose mother was the daughter of William Andrews. The Cloughs lived in Fabius and Henry Bradt was from Truxton, with other Bradts in Cuyler and DeRuyter. Henry and Lucy lived in Apulia, so they were all in about a 7-10 mile radius of Keeny.

Well, thanks for thinking of me, and stay in touch.

Sincerely,

Laurie

SUBJECT BENJAMIN ANDREWS | DATE Oct. 22, 1970

Enclosed please find various records which I located through records at Cortland Co. Hist. Society earlier this week. I am somewhat chagrinned as I just found out that the Church Record which I prided my self in locating and deciphering in order to locate some facts about your Benjamin Andrews has had a transcript made and is located in another part of our Society Library. I enjoyed reading it anyway but if you come to Cortland be sure to get the transcript to save time. The POLLY ANDREWS, wf. of Benjamin has me a bit puzzeled?? Society open Mon, Wed & Fri. 1-5 but other arrangemts can be made. I am very much the amatuer at genealogy and have found that by helping others I acquaint myself with more sources that are available and how to dig things out. Is Benjamin Andrews in your line? We have a few copies of early news papers but local news was not their strong suit. If you have any particular question relative to the enclosed material that I can help you with let me know.
